To Arrest Russia To Sign "Richest Man In Kansas"

WICHITA, KAS., July 20.—(By the Associated Press)—A warrant for the arrest of Warren E. Brown, president of the Brown-Crummer Investment Company, and said to be the richest man in Kansas, in connection with the failure of the American State Bank of Wichita four weeks ago, was issued here last night on the complaint of Carl J. Peterson, state bank commissioner.

The complaint alleges that Brown unlawfully, willingly and knowingly, aided and abetted J. N. Richardson, president of the defunct bank, in attempting to defraud the bank in the alleged removal of $300,000 in bonds.

Warrants for Richardson, president of the bank and treasurer of the Brown-Crummer Company; R. E. Crummer, vice president and manager of the Brown-Crummer Company, and a director of the defunct bank, and H. P. Hoffman, cashier of the Brown-Crummer Company, also were issued on complaints sworn to by Commissioner Peterson, charging them with guilt in the same offense.

The shortage of the bank, the second largest of its kind in Kansas, is approximately $1,800,000.

Britain To Strengthen Singapore Naval Base

LONDON, July 20.—(By the Associated Press)—Renewed frank discussion of the possibility of a war with Japan in the future came to an end in the house of commons last night with the passage, under closure, by a vote of 217 to 130 of the naval estimates providing for strengthening the naval base at Singapore.

Most of the opposition came from liberal and labor members who argued that the project was not in line with the Washington conference and that its completion would mean resumption of competition in naval armament and sow seeds of war.

Some opponents conceded, nevertheless, that the spread of Japanese immigration might be a source of difficulty between Great Britain and Japan a generation hence.

These assertions were countered by Lieutenant Colonel L. S. Amery, the first lord of the admiralty, who contended that all the delegates at the Washington conference understood that Great Britain reserved the right to strengthen the Singapore base and that the Meridian line was specified in the treaty limiting the area of its application to exclude Singapore for the terms of the agreement.

Leaking Oil Cooler Forces Maughan Down Near Goal

WASHINGTON, July 20.—(By the Associated Press)—The army air service announced today that the attempt to make a daylight dash from the coast of Mexico to the United States in which Lieutenant Russell L. Maughan has failed twice, has been called off for the year.

No explanation accompanied the announcement, but it is understood that the shortening of the available daylight period during another interval of preparation would be sufficient to make it improbable that Lieutenant Maughan could reach his destination at San Francisco before dark.

ROCK SPRINGS, WYO., July 20.—(By the Associated Press)—Battling unflinchingly to the end in his second rare against time to span the American continent between dawn and dusk, Lieutenant Russell L. Maughan, army aviator, has left again before the odds of mechanical weakness which brought him down with a leaking oil cooler here late yesterday.

Winging his way westward across the perilous Wyoming mountain ranges at the terrific rate of 170 miles an hour, after covering more than two-thirds of the 2,670 mile flight, the lieutenant was forced to descend with RICHLAND, MO., July 20.—(By the Associated Press)—Half way up a rugged bluff of the Ozarks, which tower above the Gasconade River, about three miles from here, have been found evidences of a prehistoric civilization which aroused the interest of archeologists of the Smithsonian Institute, who will arrive here soon to investigate.

Postoffice Row On

WESTERVILLE, O., July 20.—(By the Associated Press)—When Warren G. Harding, of Marion, O., was elected president, he appointed Mrs. Mary E. Lee, an old friend, of this neighboring place, as postmistress of Westerville. The Westerville postmaster pays well, as Western Anti-Saloon League, and there is considerable mail to be handled.

But Mrs. Lee did not get along well with some of the men employees and four or five of them were removed. The business men's association and many prominent citizens protested, but Mrs. Lee stood her ground and was backed up by the federal service commission. "Lack of harmony" was the charge.

Things quieted down for a time, but trouble broke out with renewed vengeance yesterday when another employee was dismissed. Now the Westerville business men say they will protest to President Harding when he returns from his trip to Alaska. Some say the president will be asked to remove Mrs. Lee.

Gives Special Charges

CINCINNATI, O., July 20.—(By the Associated Press)—More than 25 special charges, submitted by defense counsel, were disposed of by Judge Stanley Matthews in criminal court today before argument to the jury were begun in the trial of Mrs. Anna M. Bachman, 44, of Crescentville, Ohio, accused of second degree murder in connection with the death of James Webster, 22, a boarder in her home. Judge Matthews agreed upon many of these requests for special charges, and read them to the jury. Many others were rejected.

The special charges contained rulings on technical questions that have arisen in the case.

About a year ago in a large cave which opens to the river, A. Steckle, the owner, who was enlarging it to make a resort for tourists, uncovered three human skulls and a number of bones, in addition to pottery and beads. The skulls are unusual, in that they do not resemble Indian skulls, but have low, receding foreheads and very thick skull bones. The teeth are large, sharp and well preserved.

The bones were uncovered in a bed of ashes directly below a large hole in the stone ceiling, evidently made by the action of fire. More than a foot of earth covered the ashes. Because of this earth, which apparently could have come there only through decomposition, it is believed the race lived 2,000 years or more ago.

Name Receivers For Dollings Co.

COLUMBUS, O., July 20.—(By the Associated Press)—A tripartite receivership for the R. L. Dollings Company of Ohio, and the International Note and Mortgage Company, a subsidiary of the Dollings Company, was appointed by Common Pleas Judge Robert P. Duncan after the company had acquiesced in the appointment of receivers demanded last Saturday by thirteen stockholders and joined today by fifteen other share holders.

The receivers are William C. Willard, a vice president of the Huntington National Bank, selected personally by the court; Paul A. Delong, selected by counsel representing share holders, and Samuel A. Kincaid, selected by counsel for the Dollings Company. All are Columbus men.

The court also appointed Fred N. Sinks, Columbus attorney, receiver for the C. and E. Shoe Company, Columbus, which had been financed by the Dollings Company, upon application of Boston creditors. His bond was fixed at $50,000.

Though the same receivers were appointed for the Dollings Company and the International Note and Mortgage Company, the receiverships are distinct. Bonds for each receiver in each case was fixed at $50,000. Both the companies and the share holders favored the same personnel as receivers because of the inseparable interlocking of the two concerns.

Acquiescence in the receivership was made by Attorney E. C. Turner, chief counsel for the Dollings and the International Note and Mortgage Companies on the ground that assets and interests of share holders and creditors would be better safe guarded. He would not admit that the companies were insolvent, declaring that he was not yet thoroughly advised as to their financial condition.

Judge Duncan threatened to clear the crowded court room, when spectators, most of whom were said to be share holders in either the Dollings Company or its subsidiaries started a demonstration following a request from Attorney Lowery F. Sater, who said he represented two share holders in suits aggregating $4,500 that big men capable of dealing with millions of dollars, he appointed receivers. He charged that the company by acquiescing in the receivership, had admitted mismanagement and insolvency.

Attorney Hedges of the counsel for shareholders, requested of the court that the receivers be instructed to immediately collect and hold in their possession all assets of the R. L. Dollings Companies of Pennsylvania and Indiana.

No such instruction was given, however, after it was suggested that inventories required of the receivers would show such assets.

In agreeing to the receivership, Attorney Turner declared the mere request for a receivership for a company of the character of the Dollings Company "puts it out of business to all intents and purposes." He contended that the company was interested chiefly in a policy that would protect those interested.

As for the International Note and Mortgage Company, capitalized at $10,000,000 with approximately $7,500,000 outstanding, he said its assets might be termed "frozen credits" representing loans to companies financed by the Dollings Company which would be slow in collection.

He declared the greatest concern in connection with the receivership was the plan of these companies which should be "nursed along" so they too might not have to submit to receiverships.

Mr. Turner declared the R. L. Dollings Company owes no banks and has no general creditors.

NEW YORK, July 20.—(By the Associated Press)—A grand jury today indicted Wm. H. Anderson, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of New York on charges of grand larceny and forgery and then handed down a presentment calling for a legislative investigation of the league's activities since 1913, when Anderson became superintendent.

Anderson entered a plea of not guilty and was held in $5,000 bail, to cover all the indictments. His counsel said bail would be furnished at once.

Anderson was indicted for first degree grand larceny and third degree forgery.

Mr. Anderson, apparently expecting that Assistant District Attorney Percora, who presented the case to the jury would induce that body to indict, was in court with his counsel when the indictment was returned.

The grand larceny charges, on which two separate indictments were returned, were that Anderson obtained from the league $4,500 in March, 1921, and $1,500 in February, 1921. The forgery indictment charged him with ordering falsification of the league's books to conceal receipts of $4,400 as a split on commissions due O. Bortell Phillips, former solicitor for the league.

Assistant District Attorney Percora announced that in addition to the grand larceny and forgery indictments returned, the grand jury had voted two indictments for extortion, based on alleged collection of Anderson of "splits" on commissions earned by O. Verstell Phillips, former solicitor for the league. These indictments, he said, will be filed next Wednesday.

Pershing's Nemesis Killed By Secretary

EL PASO, TEXAS, July 20.—(By the Associated Press)—A dispatch from Chihuahua, Mexico, today says that General Francisco Villa, famous rebel leader against whom General Pershing conducted his drive into Mexico, was shot and killed at his home at Canutillo, Chihuahua State, early today. A rebel uprising of local nature resulted in his death.

CHIHUAHUA CITY, MEXICO, July 20.—(By the Associated Press)—General Francisco (Panchito) Villa, commander of rebel armies in Northern Mexico for ten years was shot and killed this morning at 8:30 o'clock at his big ranch at Canutillo, Durango, by Miguel Trillo, his secretary.

In the battle which followed Trillo was killed by men loyal to their slain chieftain and according to latest advices received from the ranch, the fight is still in progress.

More than 100 casualties have occurred in the sanguinary fighting which followed the shooting of Villa by Trillo.

The latter is said to have become incensed at the former bandit leader and to have fired at him suddenly. The bullets took fatal effect and Villa died almost immediately.

Trillo was fired upon by other men near the scene of the shooting, and was killed a few minutes later.

Men who had rallied behind Trillo then engaged the loyal Villa troops and a general battle occurred within the ranch. Villa had about 800 men on the ranch and all were trained in the handling of fire-arms, having followed the chieftain in his campaigns against the Obregon government just prior to his surrender and signing of the armistice with Obregon.

The movement headed by Trillo is said to have been the culmination of ill feeling against Villa on the ranch due to delay in paying his men, and the failure of crops because of lack of rain. Villa several times declared that in event of a rebellion he would put it down with an iron hand and in such a manner that it would not be repeated.

There are immense stores of rammions and arms at the ranch where Villa lived the life of a feudal baron. He maintained an isolated position having his own army and cavalry companies and always showing an aggressive disposition to hold on to his property acquired when the peace pact was signed.

Chihuahua military officials said today that they were not positive whether federal forces would be sent to the scene immediately due to the fact that General Eugenio Martinez, personal friend of Villa, is said to be enroute to Canutillo to quell the uprising. It was due to the efforts of General Martinez that a settlement was reached with Villa when the rebel chieftain laid down his arms.

In event troops are needed they will be sent immediately, however, it was stated.

Call Off Invasion

PORT ARTHUR, TEX., July 20.—(By the Associated Press)—The descent of an estimated 20,000 "foot loose" members of the Industrial Workers of the World on Port Arthur, itself a city of approximately 20,000, has been called off and instead a general strike of the marine workers members of the I. W. W. is threatened.

But a few members of the advance guard had arrived here when the dramatic eleven hour orders of high officials of the I. W. W. called off the march. They are in jail.

Late last night Sidney Terry, general organizer for the I. W. W., announced that the impending general strike would take marine workers out of vessels in every American port and the higher officials did not consider it advisable to concentrate in any one section.

The "foot loose" members had been ordered here in protestation of the rights of two I. W. W. alleged to have been spitted away from here and beaten severely by unknown persons.

The marine strike is to be a protest, Terry told the Associated Press, against imprisonment for violation of criminal syndicalism laws and against the recent court injunction in California. Reports received here from Los Angeles Wednesday told of 27 members of the I. W. W. being convicted of criminal syndicalism by a jury in superior court in Los Angeles, and of their sentences to serve from one to fourteen years in San Quentin penitentiary.

"The strike is to be general, affecting all transport members of our organization, as they come into the different ports after the strike order is given," Terry said.

At Cordova the president was expected to take the Copper River and Northwestern Railway for a run out to the Miles and Childs Glaciers. These glaciers are on opposite sides of the Copper River at Mile 49, where the stream is spanned by a mammoth steel bridge, set in concrete. That place is said to be the only spot in the world where even one glacier can be reached by train.

It was directed that the stock be divided into 2,400,000 shares, selling at $25 par. The stock on the previous capitalization was 400,000 shares selling at $100 par. More than eighty per cent of the outstanding stock was represented.

Police Win Race

CHICAGO.—Police won a "race" with a lighted fuse of a bomb in a tenement early today when they were summoned by Benjamin Anconi, a resident of the house, who told them he had been awakened by a man who placed the explosive near his door. After lighting the fuse, the man fled, according to Anconi, who ran to a corner drug store and called the officers who extinguished the fuse.

Guns To Stop Smugglers

HONOLULU, July 20.—(By the Associated Press)—Harris Murray, collector of customs, announced today that he would ask Captain Henry Nelson of the Pacific Mail Line, President Wilson, which will arrive here tomorrow from the Far East, bound for San Francisco, to mount machine guns on the aft deck for use against smugglers.

Murray said smugglers are in the habit of trailing liners from the Orient and picking up opium thrown overboard by accomplices aboard.

Recently Murray announced that Trans-Pacific had been granted permission from Washington to carry machine guns on their decks to curb opium smuggling.

Makes Threat At Grave

PITTSBURGH, PA., July 20.—(By the Associated Press)—The body of Mrs. Julia Coyne, the girl bride of Patrick Coyne, was laid to rest in the Braddock Catholic cemetery today while county detectives continued their vigil at the husband's bedside in a hospital in an effort to gain from him some knowledge concerning her murder last Tuesday. The nude body of the girl, who had been beaten and shot was found in her home at Port Perry, a few hours after Coyne had his legs crushed off by a train while at work on a steel mill.

A dramatic incident of the funeral was the statement of John Conroy, father of the girl, who, as the casket was lowered into the grave, declared: "I know who killed her. I'm sure of it, and he'll answer to me the first time we meet. On the street, if we ever do."

Selby Shoe Company Buys Columbus Factory

COLUMBUS, O., July 20.—Judge Robert P. Duncan in common pleas court today approved the sale of the properties of the John Kenton Shoe Manufacturing company of Columbus to the Selby Shoe company, of Portsmouth, which plans to operate the plant as a unit of the company's Portsmouth plant. Sale carried with it a lease on the building for two years.

Though the properties had been appraised at $87,000 in connection with receiver's petition to sell, the Selby company offered $50,000, which was approved.

At the plant of the Selby Shoe company today it was stated that the Kenton factory would continue to operate under the Kenton name with the same managers in charge as now. The same policy will be continued, that of manufacturing a high grade style Mackay shoe. The Selby shoe is a high grade product sold mainly in the best stores of the larger cities. The company has enjoyed a good business but has been handicapped by lack of finances. Through the sale to the Selby Shoe company the needed finances will be provided.

John Kenton who has been in charge and who has been doing most of the selling will be used as style man by the Selby company while Thomas Butler, well known in the shoe manufacturing world will be used as quality man in all three of the Selby plants in addition to his work at the Kenton plant. Mr. Butler was at one time in the shoe manufacturing business in Cincinnati. The properties were first appraised at near the $80,000 mark and later at about $87,000, but there were many items the Selby company did not buy and their offer of $50,000 was considered a fair one.

Suit To Collect Alimony

J. Alden Staker, administrator, against Andrew Cooper, now living in Fullerton, Ky., is the title of an action brought in Common Pleas court in which the plaintiff is seeking to recover the sum of $377.40 claimed to be due under an order of the court entered on June 9, 1922, requiring Cooper to pay his wife, Mary Cooper, now deceased, the sum of $7.50 a week alimony. The petition filed through Attorneys McLaughlin and Staker, alleges that the defendant is in arrears in the sum indicated and asks judgment for that amount.

Adams Case Given Another Whirl
Judge Thomas in Common Pleas Court Friday heard evidence in support of the plaintiff in the case of John W. Adams, N. & W. freight conductor, against Kellie Adams, Third street, in regard to the care and custody of their minor children and as to the payment of alimony.

Adams claimed that the children were not being given a proper home and care and declared he was unable to pay the $70 a month alimony ordered by the court. The hearing was continued to give both sides an opportunity to present additional testimony Saturday.

Attorney E. G. Miller, appeared for Adams and Attorney Harry Ball represented the wife.

Returned Empty-Handed

Deputy Sheriff Robert Reno returned last night from Graham, Va., where he went after John W. Portis, wanted here to meet a non support indictment returned by a Scioto county grand jury more than a year ago. The officer returned empty-handed, failing to get the defendant, who had been arrested by the authorities there and then released on bond.

Body Of Truck Wrecked When It Hit Telephone Pole; Occupants Uninjured

The entire body of a truck belonging to the Portsmouth Candy Company was demolished this morning about 6:30 o'clock in an accident at Gallia and Young streets. Will Dever was the driver of the truck and he escaped injury as did a friend who was riding with him.

According to Dever he was keeping close to the south curb as he was driving east enroute to Jackson and Wellston and a telephone pole that was leaning over the street caught the top and wrecked the machine. The pole belongs to the Portsmouth Telephone Company and a number of their wires were torn down as a result of the collision.

The accident was the cause of a rumor that was circulated through the East End this morning that a street car had struck an automobile at Gallia and Young and that several persons had been killed.

Aha! Fall Brings Sheriff And Dry Agents Upon Hidden Cache Of "Moon" Near Ashland

ASHLAND, KY., July 20.—An unexpected tangle from a high rock landing Sheriff Delbert Clark in the center of a hidden cache of moonshine liquor today, when he, in company with Federal Prohibition Agent J. M. Billiter, Constable John Johnson and Deputy Sheriffs R. C. Mills and George Nicholson were enjoying a still hunt near Hurricane, four miles back of Catlettsburg.

The find came after several hours of fruitless search for a moonshine still and outfit which they believed they would find in that neighborhood. The officers, tired and hot, were resting on a rock cliff before returning to Catlettsburg, when a portion of the cliff gave way and precipitated the Sheriff to the ground, 12 feet below. No injuries were suffered, but an examination of hard things on which he landed proved to be the necks of several gallon bottles.

Six full gallon jugs of white "mule" were dug from the ground and destroyed by the officers. A short distance away they found a site where a still evidently had been in operation only a short time before their arrival, but all equipment had been removed.

Ten business structures are reported to have been completely destroyed. Twenty dwelling houses are included in the damaged buildings.

According to reports from Kimball, many persons narrowly escaped injury. The fire is believed to have started in the kitchen of the restaurant about 2 o'clock this morning, spreading rapidly throughout the entire building in which the restaurant was located and communicating to other buildings adjoining it.

Tax Books Closed Today

The curtain was rung down by Treasurer Henry B. Ruel on the June tax collection at the close of business Friday afternoon and there was a rush of late comers to square up with the county before the books were finally closed in order to escape the penalty which will be added on all delinquents Saturday.

While it is estimated that the collection will run well over the million dollar mark no definite figures will be available until the work of checking up is completed and this will require several days. The collection which was terminated today was a most successful one and it was wisely handled by Treasurer Ruel and his efficient corps of assistants.

Both men were members of the officers reserve corps and were just finishing a practice flight. Lieutenant McNabb was the pilot and Lieutenant Kinney was acting as passenger. Light Cars Driving Over River Road

A. W. Abele, secretary of the Iron-ore Automobile Club, drove over the river road to Portsmouth today. The contractor who is building the road, has thrown it open to light automobile traffic in dry weather. No trucks will be permitted to travel the road. In the event of rain the detour offers the best route. But if you want to drive in Portsmouth in dry weather you will be permitted to take the River Road with your car.

Contractor Surder informed Mr. Abele he will have the road completed by August 15th in plenty of time to accommodate the attendants at Raceland during the August meet. —Iron-ore Register.

Small Flock Of Hens, Smaller Garbage Cans Would Mean Much To Housekeepers

Washington Press Service. Special to Portsmouth Times. WASHINGTON, D. C., July 21—A small flock of hens, instead of a large garbage can means a sizeable balance on the side of thrift, is the essence of advice passed on to Ohio housekeepers by the United States Department of Agriculture, in a special study of the best methods of handling and the profits to be expected from poultry keeping.

The hens, carefully selected and given proper attention, should bring in an annual income of $40, according to the poultry experts of the federal department.

In addition, they will completely solve the problem of disposing of garbage, which is important from the standpoint of health as well as from economics, it is explained. A hen that does not in her pullet year produce ten dozen of eggs should be replaced by a hen that can against. Constant warfare must be waged against lice and mites, which, when present, sap the vitality of the bird, and keep down egg production.

It should be remembered, Ohio farmers are warned, that when a fowl has consumed and assimilated sufficient food to maintain herself in first-class physical condition, and over and above this has stored up surplus vitality to go into egg-making, it has done all that can reasonably be expected of it.

No hen should be expected to maintain in illness and comparative luxury myriad insects that torture and extract from her body the vital fluid that is at once the basis of good condition and egg production. A certain amount of work and trouble is involved in poultry raising, say federal experts, but good hens are grateful and will well reward every little attention bestowed upon them.

Besides, it is declared, successful chicken raisers must first of all be enthusiastic and devoted farmers, in which event the work of caring for them will become a real pleasure instead of drudgery.

The fact on which the Department of Agriculture places greatest emphasis is that since practically every farm contains chickens they should be good ones, and should be handled in correct fashion.

It has been demonstrated in repeated official experiments that bird for bird, a pure bred fowl will eat less and cause less worry and annoyance than a scrub, that spends the majority of her time getting herself into trouble instead of into the laying nest.

The proven fact that a reliable hen will, with careful attention, bring to her owner not less than $4 a year, with no impairment of capital, should be sufficient inducement for every Ohioan who has even a back yard to pick out a number of good birds, and go to it with the determination to make the venture pay into profits as well as genuine pleasure, say federal authorities.

France And England

hopeless as they may seem on the surface.

The French are not happy about the Ruhr. They know it has not been productive of reparations and it is small consolation to hear defenders of the Ruhr policy say it has produced more than Germany would voluntarily have paid in the same period. All would have been well could France have gone into the Ruhr and collected reparations in materials without any cost of collection. But the overhead is eating up the French. As Andre Tardieu, the famous French statesman, who is looked upon as a coming premier said the other day: "We are not occupying the Ruhr. We are being occupied by the Ruhr."

It costs money to keep troops and engineers in the Ruhr and the French people have not yet looked the bill squarely in the face. What they will say when they look retrospectively at the whole situation at the November meeting of parliament is just now giving politicians much concern.

To tell the truth, even if Premier Poincare wanted to order the French troops from the Ruhr, he would not dare do so, because he can neither confess failure to the French people, nor proclaim to the world that Germany indicated that last trump card in the collection of reparations, namely, that economic coercion has been played without success.

Would not Germany be inclined to go the whole distance then and repudiate her debts as she grows stronger from year to year? As long as the French stay in the Ruhr they feel that they have a club over Germany's head.

And, of course, is better than foresight, and there are plenty of statesmen who say that the French made their biggest mistake when they failed to make the Ruhr occupation political as well as economic, so that the French would have been as powerful to administer law in the Ruhr as they have been in the Rhineland. Under such circumstances passive resistance by Germany would have been less of a fact. And had the British accompanied the French in the Ruhr an exit could now be made more gracefully and as an allied measure. With England and France united the Germans might have felt less encouragement to resist.

All this is "it might have been" reasoning, but it does illustrate how the French came to miscalculate the risks of the Ruhr policy. They did not count on the effects of British disagreement nor problems of internal administration in the Ruhr. Out of mistakes of the past comes policies of the future. Anglo-French unity will compel Germany to make a better offer of payment than she has ever made. The French are faced with a choice between continued isolation which is growing them nowhere, unless they want to wait indefinitely and run the risk of seeing Germany disintegrate by a revolution, or a return to allied solidarity which will yield more in actual money, although it will not fulfill anybody's expectations as to payments anticipated originally or even as late as a year ago. The confusion in the Ruhr has admittedly weakened Germany's capacity to pay for a few years to come and has made it necessary for the French to be content with smaller payments in the immediate future.

Probably Will Be Compromise
A compromise will probably be worked out through a return to the reparations commission with some flexibility of policy to insure increased payments whenever Germany shall appear to be improving sufficiently to pay more from year to year. The question of an Anglo-French compromise is becoming daily less a matter of sentiment and more a matter of dollars and cents. When it is less expensive for the French and the British to agree than it is to disagree, they will make reciprocal concessions and quit jockeying. The bluffing games will go on however, for a little while longer until matters get worse. Then an agreement will be compelled by the facts. For everybody knows that Europe in a disagreement means financial chaos and the illusion of angelic America coming to the rescue now has been dispelled.

Earl And Dancer Marry

CHICAGO, July 20.—The Earl of Northesk and Miss Jessica Brown, former 'Follies' girl, were married here last night in the offices of Frank T. Jordan, her attorney. Judge John R. Carver performed the ceremony.

Yesterday the Earl of Northesk and Miss Brown appeared at the office of Robert M. Switzer, County Clerk, obtained the license and left the County Building at once, ignoring questions of newspaper men fired at them.

The name of the Earl on the records appeared as David Ludovic George Hopetoun Carnegie, Earl of Northesk, of London and Middlesex, 21 years old. That of the former 'Follies' girl was Jessica Ruth Brown, 22 years old.

The marriage was delayed for over an hour while the couple waited for the bride's mother, Mrs. A. W. Stark, to arrive. The bride was attired in a slinky gown of that crepe of a deep blue shade. A grey chiffon wrap was twisted about her shoulders and a floppy wide brimmed hat of grey crepe completed the last detail of the studied simplicity which marked the ceremony.

The guests include Attorney Jordan and Mrs. Jordan, half a dozen law students and another half dozen newspaper reporters. The Earl and his prospective bride waited, evidently very ill at ease, for the arrival of Judge Carver and the ceremony was started.

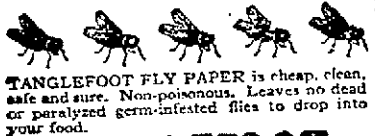

The wedding was probably the most quiet part of a quite busy day for the Earl and his fiancée. Reporters followed them everywhere despite their repeated denials that they were to be married here.

The Earl of Northesk, 21-year-old, followed Miss Brown here from London where he saw her dance last March.

He announced upon arrival that he expected to marry the former 'Follies' girl, but a short time later their plans were checked at least temporarily, when they were refused a marriage license in New York because Jessica's divorce from her first husband in Chicago was not recognized there.

Kiwanians Entertained At Scout Camp

Thirty-five members of the Kiwanis Club were royally entertained yesterday afternoon and evening at the Boy Scouts' camp on the Little Scioto above Sciotoville by the Scouts and Scout Executive L. T. Henderson, who left nothing undone in the way of making the event a thoroughly enjoyable one.

The afternoon was spent "in the ole swimmin' hole," the Kiwanians and Scouts enjoying themselves to their heart's content. Then there was a chicken dinner prepared by the Scouts and served in tin pans. Cocoa was served in tin cups. It was "some feed."

After the dinner the Kiwanians engaged in a ball game with and defeated the Scouts, 8-2. Eph Ricker and Ed Leach formed the Kiwanian battery. The outing was brought to a close with drills, exhibitions of diving, and stunts by the Scouts. The outing proved one of the most enjoyable ever held.

Lad Was Correct; He Made Half Dollar Disappear But He Had To Swallow Coin

WEST UNION, O., July 20.—Special To Times.—Darwin, the 10-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Killy Edgington, in trying some "sleight of hand" performance for his playmates, swallowed a half dollar. He had told his small friends to watch him place the half dollar in his mouth, and take it out his nose. He placed the money in his mouth and it lodged in his throat. The children happened to be near the office of Dr. W. B. Loney, and he was taken there by an older brother.

The money passed into the stomach. The lad has suffered much from the ulcerated condition of his throat, but is recovering somewhat from this. He will be taken to the Marysville Hospital and an X-ray taken to locate the position of the coin.

Twenty-four Years Ago

Contractors started tearing up Gallia street, preparatory to paving the thoroughfare. It was necessary to tear up the stone foundation placed on the street in 1885 in order to get the proper depth of excavation.

John W. Shannon, one of the official board of the Mt. Joy Fair, while in the city stated that arrangements were fast nearing completion for the annual agricultural exhibition at Mt. Joy.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Haas, of Third street.

George Simpson died at his home, 1443 Summit street, Lawson Heights. He was 44 years old and a native of this city. For many years he was driver of a delivery wagon for Drew, Selby & Co.

A trick bicycle rider gave an exhibition of riding at noon at the post office esplanade and attracted a large crowd.

Alex. Glockner and a party of friends left for Camp Recreation, near Rushtown, to spend a couple of weeks.

Work on the excavation for the new Daehler building was started by Contractor Hudson.

YACHT RACES WILL CLOSE THIS EVENING

PUT-IN-BAY, O., July 20.—The interest of the several hundred yachtsmen here for the Inter-lake Yacht Association's regatta, which will practically close to an end tonight with the distribution of trophies, centers today in the second and third races for the honor of representing the Inter-lake in the Great Lakes Inter-American events for the Richardson trophy at Toronto September 7, 8 and 9 between the Class "B" champion Mebleh and the Clarice of the Cleveland Yacht Club.

Mebleh's defeat by Clarice yesterday is attributed to the former's head start, and accordingly there is much speculation as to whether the Clarice can repeat.

Extensive Oil Operations Planned For Pike County

PIKETON, O., July 20.—From rumors that persist in floating around it would seem that the stage is all set for the beginning of a gigantic oil operations in Pike county. With seventeen thousand acres of land located in Seal, Scioto and adjoining townships, leased for a long term of years, and plans almost completed for the drilling of the first well, which will be located on the Jacob Shearer farm near Piketon, there is little likelihood that the proposed operations will prove to be a blunder.

S. C. Woodward of Los Angeles, Calif., is the leading figure in what is the largest project of this kind ever staged in Pike county. Mr. Woodward has had several years experience in the oil game and in addition to his training along this line is an expert geologist. Mr. Woodward has faith in the hills of old Pike county and is confident that they will yield up to his company, oil in quantities that will more than justify his faith in them.

Associated with Mr. Woodward is several of Springfield's most prominent business men, and a number of Pike county's leading business men and citizens whose honesty and integrity are beyond question, and who are staking a liberal portion of their worldly goods on the hypothesis that underneath the hills of old Pike county is hidden wealth, beyond the fondest expectation, in the form of oil.

Wheat Yield Very Heavy Quality Fine, Farmers Say

The wheat yield this season is the best in the last three years, according to wheat growers throughout the country who have been harvesting. The average yield, they say, is twice as large as any year since 1920.

James Appel, who has eighty acres of wheat in a field north of Lucasville, says he is receiving an average of 18 1/2 bushels per acre. On his 30 acres of hill land the yield was as high as 26 bushels per acre.

At Rushtown Pearl Overturn is getting from 13 to 15 bushels to the acre on his hundred acre farm. He says that the quality is much finer than in recent years.

Joseph Brant of Lucasville says he is obtaining an average of 15 1/2 bushels per acre from his field of Puol wheat at Clifford. In some places among his sixty acres he is securing as high as 22 bushels per acre.

New Wheat is bringing from ninety cents to one dollar per bushel, according to George Ziesler of the Ziesler Grain Co., Lucasville.

Miss Dolly Wise

She is here to answer any and all questions concerning love, marriage, troubles, room, etiquette, etc. Inquiries should be addressed to Miss Dolly Wise, care The Daily Times, Portsmouth, Ohio.

Dear Dolly—I am another broken-hearted girl seeking advice. Dolly, I have an awful temper and this is what makes me so unhappy. Can you tell me how I can learn to control it? The other night my friend and I had a quarrel and I told him he need never come back again. I also said many things that I did not mean and would not have said, if I had not been so mad. Do you think he would forgive me if I would apologize? Dolly, my conscience has hurt me ever since I had that quarrel. I loved him and still love him, but that was before we ever quarreled. I am 18 years of age and have brown eyes, dark hair and a dark complexion, what color would be nice to make me a dress. Dolly, could you tell me where my lost relative is? If not do you think Richard and the Wizard could? I have not heard from her for several years.

B. D.
The only way to control your temper is to use your will power. You might as well try counting twenty-five or fifty before you say anything and maybe by that time you will have gotten over your mad spell, at least enough not to say anything mean. A temper is a terrible thing and those who are so unfortunate as to have a quick temper usually are a misery to themselves and everyone with whom they come in contact. I imagine you could wear red, tan, yellow, orange and various shades of blue. Your relative isn't lost—she is just careless about writing. If you know her last address, write her there and she will probably get your letter and answer it.

Dear Dolly—As I have never asked you anything, I am coming to you for some questions to be answered. Please tell me the correct height and weight of a girl of fourteen and a boy of sixteen years of age. Also tell me some color of goods that would make a pretty summer dress for a girl with blue eyes, dark hair and light complexion.
M. P.
There is no special height for a girl of 14 and a boy of sixteen, but if you will tell me your height I can tell you what you are supposed to weigh. Any of the bright colors would make you a pretty dress, the brighter the better.

Dear Dolly—I see where they are preparing to resurface Gallia street and I was wondering if every property owner on the street was making a special effort to have all their gas and water pipes fixed and put in good condition before this work is done so that the street won't have to be torn up again as soon as they have it fixed. That is usually what happens every time a street is paved or any other improvement made here in the city, and I thought that a suggestion of this kind would keep the street in fine shape at least for awhile.
PROGRESSIVE CITIZEN.

I hope everyone concerned will take the hint, and fix their pipes if they have not already done so.

Dear Dolly—Would you please publish a receipt for sweet pickles?
D. B. H.
Sweet Cucumber Pickles—Six pounds of ripe cucumber pickles, eight pounds of brown sugar, one tablespoon each of cloves, cinnamon and allspice, one-half tablespoon of pepper, two tablespoons of salt. Cover with vinegar and boil until tender. You can make sweet pickles the same as you would sour ones, only you add sugar to taste, to the hot vinegar.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

by Olive Roberts Barton

NICK'S GOOD ADVICE

"What can be the matter," asked Nancy anxiously hurried to the place the sounds of crying had come from.

And it only took her a second to discover who was doing it. It was the Little Peezers.

Where a moment or two before they had all been so funny and so happy, now every last one of them was crying his head off nearly.

But they were so tiny it took about a bushel of them to cry loud enough to be heard at all and about two bushels of them to make a real noise.

"What can be the matter?" asked Nancy anxiously, dropping on her knees and speaking as softly as she knew how. "Is it that bad old Cross Patch? Has he been here frightening you?"

"Oh, yes," piped out a tiny Little Peezer. "That's just what's the matter. Before he came along we were as happy as flies in a honey-pot, but after he waved his magic stick, we suddenly discovered that we hate to be little. It's awful to be little, so it is! We can't run fast, and we can't eat a lot, and we can't hear much, and we're just nothing at all!"

"But just think," Nick reminded him. "And all the other Little Peezers stopped crying and listened hard. 'It's fine to be little in lots of ways. When you're sick there's such a little bit of you to suffer! And when you fall down there's such a little bit of you to get hurt! And when you have to take a bath there's such a little bit of you to wash with soap! And when—"

"Oh, stop, stop!" cried all the Little Peezers and Nick reminded him. "We're happy again. And if old Cross Patch comes back, we'll tell him to get out. Thank you, Twins, we're not afraid of anything now."

JACK DAW'S ADVENTURES — UNDER THE SEA

"Why, these are nothing but little minnows, or baby fish," replied Jack, as he pecked through a wire opening in the bottom. "Well, that's why we want them fresh," replied the fisherman. "Fishermen will use them on their boats to catch the bigger fish. Please, oh please, save them."

"I will if I can," replied Jack. And while he was wondering how he could open such a large box, a big ship anchor came surging through the water. Jack just had time to jump to one side and then he grabbed hold of the anchor. "Now I'll open that box," he shouted.

Passing Of The Beloved Rev. T. H. McAfee Brings Sadness To His Countless Friends

News of the death of Rev. Thomas H. McAfee will bring sadness to his hundreds of friends, men of high and low station alike, from the chief executive of the Republic to the humblest and poorest of his acquaintances. After fighting a valiant, though losing fight for life, lasting over a period of three years, Dr. McAfee passed to his reward yesterday afternoon at 2:50.

The news of his passing, while not unexpected, came as a blow to his many friends in this city, where five years of splendid service as pastor of the first Baptist church endeared him to hundreds both within and without his parish.

Dr. McAfee was born in Philadelphia, Pa., July 20, 1863, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh McAfee. Completing his public school education with honor, he attended Temple University, from which university, he graduated. Later, Dr. McAfee took a post graduate course at Rio Grande College, where he received the degree, Doctor of Divinity.

Entering the ministry, Dr. McAfee's first charge was in Columbia, Pa., where he served for thirteen years. He was then called to Findlay, Ohio, where he served the leading Baptist Church of that community and taught practical Theology in Findlay College.

In 1910, the first Baptist Church of Portsmouth, seeking a man of power in the pulpit, called Dr. McAfee to be its pastor, and the relationship was one of unusual success, the pastor meeting the needs of the local church, and building up the membership to a remarkable degree.

By his personality and temperament, Dr. McAfee endeared himself to his people. His constant willingness to be of service to the church and the community, his staunch loyalty to his friends, all combined to make him one of the most popular ministers who ever served a Portsmouth church.

In 1915, the then Senator Warren G. Harding came to Portsmouth for a visit with local friends. As his visit extended over Sunday, the Senator attended the first Baptist Church, being a member of that denomination in his home city of Marion.

So enthused was Senator Harding over the preaching of Dr. McAfee that he urged his own church, which was then without a pastor, to call the Portsmouth minister as a candidate.

Dr. McAfee, accordingly, preached in the Marion church, and was called to the pastorate there.

With the beginning of this pastorate, a friendship between Senator Harding and Dr. McAfee grew, which has continued warm and fast until the death of the latter.

When, at the call of his party, Senator Harding became the Republican standard-bearer in 1920, Dr. McAfee was asked to deliver the invocation at the nomination services, which were held in July of that year.

A few days before these services were to take place, the minister was stricken with paralysis, and it was to the deep regret of Senator Harding and others close to him, that Dr. McAfee was unable to take part in the program.

After Mr. Harding was elected President, the friendship between the chief executive and his Marion pastor continued in an increased degree.

Since that first attack of paralysis, July 15, 1920, Dr. McAfee has been stricken twice, the second and third attacks, like the first, coming in July. The second attack occurred July 21, 1921, and the third July 25th, of this year. Since the last attack, he has been in a serious condition, and grew steadily worse until the end, yesterday afternoon.

Shortly after the first attack, Dr. McAfee, feeling that his physical condition would no longer permit him to carry on the arduous tasks of his pastorate, Dr. McAfee tendered his resignation, and an affectionate people, loath to sever the pastoral connection, elected him pastor emeritus.

Dr. McAfee was married June 1, 1887, to Miss Mary Amanda Boyer of Philadelphia, and to this union were born five daughters: Mrs. F. J. Ferguson and Mrs. William S. Sellards of this city; Mrs. Paul Bishop of Ashland, and Miss Rachel McAfee and Mrs. J. L. Buchanan, of Marion.

In addition to the widow and daughters, three brothers, James, John and Frank McAfee of Philadelphia, and two sisters, Mrs. Sarah Barrett of Washington, D. C., and Mrs. Albert Hauecher of Baltimore, Md., survive.

Funeral services will be held from the McAfee home, 508 Gerard avenue, Marion, Monday morning, at 9:30, with Rev. Daniel Rittenhaus, D. D., pastor of the first Baptist Temple, Columbus, in charge. Interment will be made in the Marion cemetery.

Eagles Planning For A Big Outing

Further plans were completed for the outing to be given under the auspices of the River City Aerle of Eagles, at a well attended meeting of the organization last night in the hall at the corner of Second and Court streets. The outing will be held Sunday, July 29, on the Lucasville fair grounds and will be for all Eagles, their families and friends.

The committee on arrangements which includes Walter Miller, Dr. Joseph Gill and Oscar Franck stated at the meeting last night that there would be all sorts of diversion and entertainment at the picnic with attractive prizes offered for the winners of various athletic events and contents.

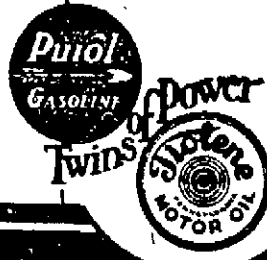

Dr. Joseph Gill was appointed delegate to the Grand Aerle Convention to be held at Denver, Col., Aug. 6-11. Dr. Gill will leave August 1 and will return about the middle of the month.

Three candidates were initiated at last night's session.

Members of a wrecking crew called from Logansport were several hours extricating the bodies.

Officials were unable to state the cause of the accident.

Big Still Discovered; Two Arrests

VANCEBURG, Ky., July 20.—Sheriff Frank Lykins and Deputy Sheriff Denny Lykins and Smith McGill, arrived here Thursday with a 60 gallon copper still, which they secured on the farm of Orville Waggoner near Petersburg, about twenty miles south of here. Deputy Smith McGill took Waggoner and Holler to Covington on the afternoon train and lodged them in the Federal prison to await trial.

Smith McGill, who is one of the regular deputies located the still several days ago, but as there were three in the gang operating it, he did not attempt the arrests alone, but waited to notify Sheriff Frank S. Lykins.

armed with search warrants and accompanied by Denny Lykins and Smith McGill went to the place Wednesday night and searched all night but failed to find the still till just till just at daybreak. They then secreted themselves near the house and when the men showed up, arrested two of them, one getting away. It is thought that the still had been in operation several years.

Jealousy is believed to have caused the cutting affray staged at 1308 Waller street shortly before 5 o'clock Thursday afternoon and as a result Agnes Williams is in Hempstead hospital suffering from numerous knife wounds inflicted by William Evans, 27, her lover, who is held at the city jail to answer to a charge of cutting with intent to kill. Both are colored.

While the woman was slashed 10 times about the abdomen and left breast, none of the cuts are regarded as serious and although much weakened by the loss of blood, her condition was reported much improved this morning at the hospital, where she was taken soon after the trouble.

According to the police investigation, Evans is a "dope" fiend and his condition at the time he was taken into custody indicated that he was under the influence of drugs. The police learned that the Williams woman had been in Huntington, where, it is said, she had been receiving the attentions of another man. Evans, the officers were told, went to Huntington yesterday and induced the woman to return to Portsmouth with him and it was shortly after they had returned the cutting took place. The couple were quarreling when they arrived at their apartment at the Waller street address, neighbors told the police, and in a short time their attention was attracted to the house by the woman's cries.

The police were notified and on going to the house arrested Evans and when searched at the police station a hypodermic needle and a quantity of narcotic was found in his pocket. The box containing the drug bore the label of a Williamson, Va. drug firm. The long black knife which Evans used is also in possession of the police. Evans will probably not be given a hearing until his victim is able to appear in court.

Circulating Petitions To Improve West Side Road And To Elevate The Towpath

A number of petitions are being circulated throughout the west side of the county and two are at the Chamber of Commerce office relative to the improving of the Hill road between Union Mills and the Y road and the raising of the Towpath. One petition to the County Commissioners and State Highway Department asks those bodies to change the Hill road from that of a county road to an inter-county highway, a part of the State's main market roadway system. The roadway thereafter shall be a link or by-pass in the Atlantic-Pacific highway whenever the river exceeds 30 feet. Such a road would then receive state and federal aid for its improvement and maintenance.

The other petition is to the State Highway Department and asks for a survey which shall include an estimate of the cost and a statement of the practicability of raising the present Towpath from the bridge to Union Mills, a distance of about 1 3/4 miles, to a height of 55 feet above low water, making this road passable at all times excepting extraordinary floods. The wall, rock and dirt filling for this improvement can be obtained free of charge. Local taxpayers interested in the improvement may sign the petitions by calling at the Chamber of Commerce offices.

Favor Higher Grain Prices

CHICAGO, July 20.—Several leaders on the Chicago Board of Trade, including L. F. Gates, Joseph P. Griffin and Robert McDougal, each of whom has served several terms as president of the board yesterday said they favored higher grain prices. Regarding the campaign which has for its slogan "buy 1,000 bushels of wheat" and "buy a barrel of flour" Mr. Gates said:

"The campaign to stimulate investment buying of wheat in small quantities seems not only reasonable but feasible."

"The withdrawal of large speculative support during the past three months has been generally attributed to the Supreme Court decision relating to what is commonly known as the Capper-Tincher act, or the grain futures act. Commission houses have not been able to rally enough support from smaller traders to offset the loss of traders in large quantities and sponsors of the law have apparently made no effort to do so, although claiming that the law would stimulate general support to more than offset the loss of large speculative dealings."

"The grain trade generally favors a higher level of wheat prices and will be glad to assist in this more-ment to encourage general support of the market to offset the pressure from the new crops as it moves from the farms."

Ohio To Have Six Delegates
To Next National Convention

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 20.—(Special)—Certainty that Ohio will have six delegates at large instead of four at the next Republican National convention, has started discussion here as to what Ohio woman will be accorded the honor of one of these places.

Ohioans today expressed the expectation that Mrs. John G. Battelle, of Columbus, recently appointed associate member of the Republican National Committee from Ohio, or Mrs. Harriett Taylor Upton, of Warren, vice-chairman of the Republican National committee, would be the first woman delegate at large from their state to attend the convention.

Mrs. David Todd, of Youngstown, named Mrs. Battelle as state chairman to direct the activities of Republican women in Ohio, is mentioned as another possibility for a place on the so-called "Big Six" formerly the "Big Four." While it is considered improbable that two women may be given places on the ticket from the state at large, G. O. P. leaders in Ohio may so decide, in which event Mrs. Upton and Mrs. Battelle would be the two leading choices.

Four male members of the "Big Six" will undoubtedly be Senators Frank R. Willis and Simeon D. Pess, Attorney General Harry M. Laughlin of Columbus and Representative Nicholas Longworth, of Cincinnati.

They will lead the 44 district delegates from Ohio, who will probably be instructed for Warren G. Harding.

Petitions Seeking Referendum On Taft And Albaugh Bills Make Appearance In City

Petitions seeking a referendum on the Taft and Albaugh bills at the coming November election made their appearance in Portsmouth Friday and are receiving many signatures according to those in charge of the petitions.

The Taft bill permits an increase of two mills in the tax rate of every city and village in Ohio.

The Albaugh bill establishes a new department of government which it is estimated will cost about one million dollars per annum in the state.

It was stated today that six percent of the electors in Ohio would be needed before a referendum vote could be taken on these measures.

Extra Guards Placed At West Union Jail To Protect Convicted Slayer

WEST UNION, July 20.—(Special to the Times)—Extra guards were placed around the Adams county jail here, last evening, when Sheriff J. F. Trefz obtained information that "men from Seaman were going to storm the jail and take Robert Davis out by force." Davis was convicted at the last term of court, of first degree murder in connection with the slaying of George Webb, which occurred Oct. 30, 1922. Davis was sentenced to be electrocuted. His case was carried to the court of appeals on error, and a new trial was granted.

The information received by the sheriff was considered authoritative and he immediately placed Marshal T. M. Whitman and a deputy sheriff on guard. They guarded the jail all night.

Whether or not, an attempt would be made by rioters, to take John C. Morris, whose decomposed body was found buried on the bank of Brush Creek, June 10th, was not known, although it was thought to be improbable.

At the time Davis was tried, there was considerable sentiment against him throughout the county.

Webb, the slain man, lived between the Davis home and Seaman, and Davis was on his way to Seaman with a load of wood, when the killing occurred.

Webb was sawing wood and had a gas engine and saw in a private right of way over which Davis passed in going to Seaman.

Threat Is Alleviated

Davis is said to have threatened Webb if the latter did not remove the saw and engine from the road.

When the saw was not removed, testimony at the trial indicated, Davis shot Webb, killing him instantly.

R. Mallon, B. and O. trainmaster at Chillicothe, visited the local B. and O. offices yesterday.

Leaking

oil pouring from the plane's tank in bucket fulls. Lieutenant Maughan had passed Rock Springs and had covered about half the distance of the fourth leg of his four stop flight when he realized that to continue and reach his goal—San Francisco—before nightfall was impossible. He averted his plane, turned back toward Rock Springs and landed at the air mail field here at 5:03 p. m. just fifteen hours to the minute after he took off at Mitchell Field, New York.

After a successful flight from the eastern terminal through the first two legs of the flight—from Mitchell Field to Dayton, Ohio, and on to St. Joseph, Mo., Lieutenant Maughan encountered his first trouble with the oil cooler shortly after noon at North Platte, Nebraska. By the time he had reached Cheyenne Wyoming completing the third leg he was so weakened by the escaping oil fumes that he almost fell from the cockpit.

Racked with nausea and nearly semi-conscious he rested while mechanics worked desperately and soldered the leaking tank. Delayed for nearly an hour Lieutenant Maughan hopped off determined to make a supreme effort to cover the stretch of nearly 1000 miles that separated him from his goal.

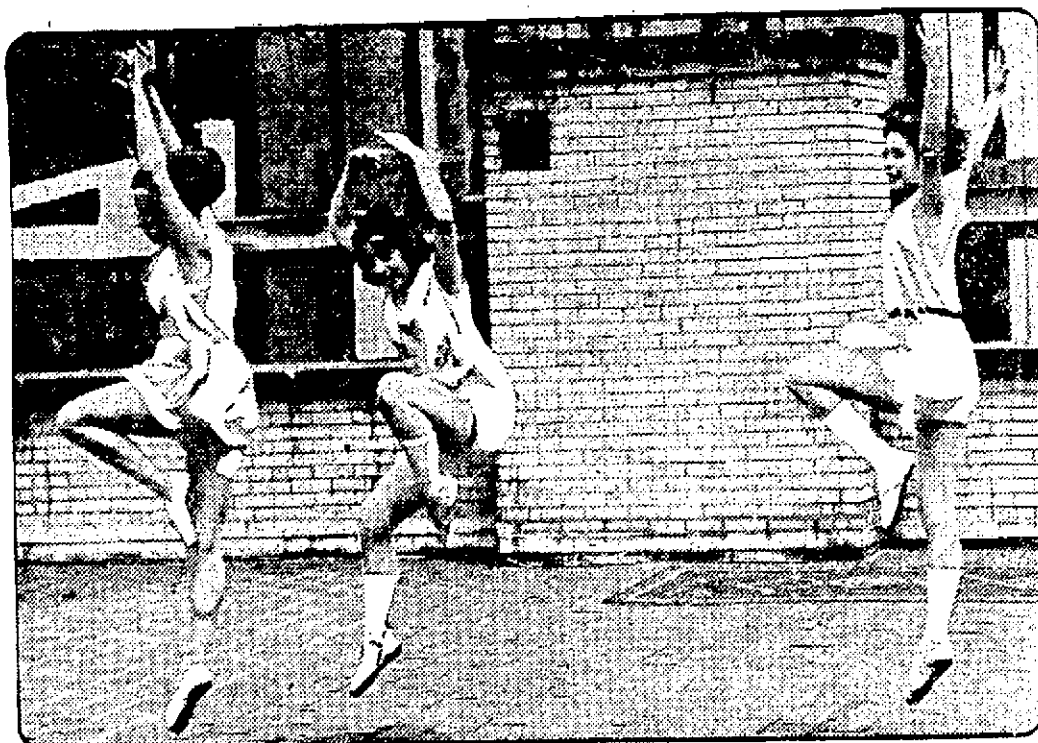

Expressing keen disappointment and noticeably discouraged at the outcome of his second attempt within ten days to cross the nation in a day the lieutenant took heart in a moral victory and in the hope that he might still have another chance to fulfill his life time ambition.

"It was the oil cooler," Lieutenant Maughan told an Associated Press correspondent as he rested his tired body against a bed post in a hotel here and told the story of his flight.

"I thought we had it fixed at Cheyenne but it became worse as I drove on. Twenty miles out of Rock Springs it began to leak in bucket fulls and I thought it best to quit."

Lieutenant Maughan's plane is at the air mail field here today undergoing repairs to the oil tank. Mechanics expect to have it ready for flying within a few hours. After a good night's rest the aviator plans today to cross the border of his home state Utah and visit his mother at Logan Utah and his wife at Heber City, Utah.

The Hot Weather Caused This

The photographer sauntered up to the roof of the Metropolitan Opera House in New York. He happened to have his camera with him and the shutter accidentally clicked. He had no idea he had such a picture as this until he developed the plate. Left to right you see Marion Wilkins, Milla Rheda and Opal Hickson, dancers who had fled from the studio to the roof because of the hot weather.

After visiting them, Lieutenant Maughan probably will take off on a return flight to Mitchell Field via the route he took in attempting his trans-continental flight.

Lieutenant Maughan discounted reports from the east that his failure might have been due to tampering with the oil tank before he started on his history-making trip.

"It was merely a case of the soldered part of the tank coming loose as the result of vibration, caused by steam," he asserted.

Carrying out his plan of conserving his speed for the latter part of the journey, Lieutenant Maughan hit the border of the Rocky Mountain region traveling at a tremendous rate. It was estimated he reached a maximum of over 200 miles an hour between Cheyenne and Rock Springs.

On the basis of the total elapsed time, from Mitchell Field, Lieutenant Maughan spanned the first 1,630 miles at an average speed of 123.6 miles an hour. Altogether he covered a total of 1,925 miles. For actual flying time it was estimated he averaged about 155 miles an hour.

Swamp Girl Confesses To Making Assault

WAUSAU, Wis., July 20.—(By the Associated Press)—Mary Lawando, the swamp girl of Marathon county, is in jail in default of $1,500 bail which would give her liberty until her trial on a charge of assault with intent to kill her step-mother, which is set for the next term of district court, more than a month away.

Mary's incarceration is the result of her confession to George A. Lipfert, district attorney, and Sheriff Arthur Elewett, that she beat Mrs. Anna Lawando over the head with a heavy oak club the night of July 10. Mary's explanation of the cause of the assault has been as vague as her brief account of her nine days wandering in a big swamp six miles from where she lived after the attack.

Since her arrest Wednesday night, when she was surprised by the sheriff and one of his posse, who had been hunting her continuously following the attack on Mrs. Lawando, the girl has refused to discuss either the attack or her flight. She still is worn from the nine days she spent eluding her pursuers in a chase which led through the most difficult country in this section.

Before her flight she had spent many days and some nights in the swamp, which seemed to hold a fascination for her.

the agreement to their opponents. Schaeffer with a catch of 30 head of fish beat Lincoln by a good margin. The victor will accept other challenges. Those wishing to keep the fish they catch need not apply because Mr. Schaeffer promises to out-catch any comer.

Spires And Moore Brought Together To Tell What They Know About Murder

WETS UNION, O., July 20.—(Special to The Times)—John Spires, first arrested in connection with the slaying of Robert F. Morris of Knoxville, Tenn., and of Cincinnati, whose badly decomposed body was found on the bank of Brush Creek near here June 16, and Frank Moore, the second man arrested, met this afternoon when they were brought into a room where Sheriff Harry Dunham and Prosecuting Attorney S. A. Skelton of Portsmouth, Sheriff Treitz, Prosecuting Attorney J. R. B. Kessler and Deputy Walter White and Attorney C. E. Robick, representing the mother of the dead man, were gathered to question the two men.

The meeting of the two at such a time as this, when both would be asked hundreds of questions in an effort to break down the stories of one or the other was arranged several days ago following the arrest of Moore, whom Spires named in his alleged confession as one of the men present in the machine in which Morris was killed. Moore has claimed ever since his arrest, that he does not know anything of the crime and that he left Spires in Portsmouth several days prior to the date of the alleged murder.

Spires declared, "By G—, I will tell Moore the same story to his face which I told to the sheriff." Officials are wondering which of the two men, one who is the accuser and the other denying, will break.

Spires, it was learned, yesterday has made an effort to obtain counsel, but has so far been unsuccessful. In case he is brought to trial, the court will appoint an attorney to defend him. His family, however, have said that they will defend him to the last.

Dr. Hazel Knechtly Taken To Marysville; Given Rousing Farewell By Eastern Star

Dr. Hazel Knechtly, doctor of chiropractic, fined $100 and costs in Municipal court Monday for violation of the limited practitioners act, and committed to the state reformatory for women at Marysville in default of payment of the fine, was taken to the institution Friday by Jailiff George Foehr to begin serving time.

The journey was started at six o'clock this morning by motor and Mrs. Foehr, wife of the Jailiff, was also a member of the party, and J. T. Donovan, former U. S. Deputy Marshall of Cincinnati, accompanied the party as far as Columbus.

An unusual demonstration in the way of a farewell to Mrs. Knechtly was staged at the jail last night when members of the Eastern Star lodge, of the circle of which the convicted chiropractor is a member, called at the battle with an orchestra and serenaded the prisoner.

About fifty members of the Order were present but more than a hundred other persons joined the throng which gathered outside the jail and participated in the demonstration. After the ladies of the Eastern Star had presented Mrs. Knechtly, their fellow-member and co-worker, with an elaborately decorated Eastern Star cake, fashioned to represent the emblem of the order, the five pointed star, through the courtesy of Sheriff Harry M. Dunham the orchestra was permitted to play several selections in the sheriff's office for the enjoyment of the prisoners and the crowd.

During the demonstration Mrs. Omer Knechtly, D. D. Owen and P. D. Parks were given corridor privileges and they were greeted by many in the crowd during the evening. They started serving their sentence Thursday noon.

New York Stocks

NEW YORK, July 20.—Prices continued to point upward at the opening of today's stock market. The early buying covered a wide assortment of industrials and specialties with several rail shares showing moderate improvement.

Creation of a more optimistic sentiment due to yesterday's substantial rise, carried prices of many shares swiftly forward in the early dealings. Gains of 1 to 2 points were registered by American Sugar, Pen American, Republic Steel, U. S. Smelting, United Drug, National Enameling and Valve Forge, Express, United Steel was a conspicuous laggard, falling back slightly and there was also some profit taking in Baldwin and Studabaker following their initial gains. Foreign exchange opened slightly lower. German marks fell to .0025 cents, a new low.

Strong evidence of restored speculative confidence was furnished by the broad character of the forenoon advance in stock prices. Share interest grew to unrivaled proportions during three months of reactionary prices, found stocks comparatively scarce at ruling figures and efforts at short selling also met effective resistance at the hands of bargain hunters. Mack Truck first preferred advanced six points, Peoples Gas 3 1/2. General Asphalt preferred

Chicago Grain

CHICAGO, July 20.—Wheat quick-ly scored gains in price today after a decline at the outset. Commission house buying developed on the downturn in price and proved to be of sufficient volume to life values. The initial weakness was more or less due to hedging sales and to reports of liberal acceptances in Illinois of overnight bids from here. The opening which ranged from 70 to 71 1/2 low-er with September 90 1/2 to 100 1/2 and December 102 1/2 to 102 1/2 was followed by upturns to well above yesterday's finish.

Corn and oats swayed with wheat. After opening unchanged to 1/2 lower, September 76 1/2 to 76 1/2, the corn market sagged a little more and then ascended all around.

Oats started at 1/2 decline to 1/2 advance, September 35 1/2. Later the

VILLA

Settled on Farm
Francisco ("Pancho") Villa, guerrilla chieftain and bandit leader in Mexico for more than 10 years, declared that he had ended his career of outlawry in August, 1920, when, at the head of 300 followers, the remnants of what had once been his army of 35,000 men, he entered San Pedro, Coahuila, and, said the cheers of the populace, announced the intention of himself and men of accepting amnesty and settling down as farmers.

A few weeks earlier, Villa had surrendered to Federal forces at Saltillo. He then declared his adherence to Provisional President de la Huerta and General Alvaro Obregon, later elected President to succeed Carranza. Before granting Villa demanded and was granted a pay and a small farm for each one of his men, a grant equal to $2,000,000.

One of the most notable escapades of Villa was his raid on Columbus, N. M., on March 6, 1916, in which he and his followers killed 17 Americans. It resulted in a punitive American military expedition under General Pershing crossing the border and maintaining a "dead or alive" pursuit of Villa which lasted more than nine months and cost the United States government, according to a War Department estimate, nearly $100,000,000.

In a battle at Parral, American troops were ambushed and a number of them killed. On March 31, however, the bandit's followers were defeated at Guerrero. The Americans were successful in number of other skirmishes and penetrated so far south into Mexico as to meet the Constitutional troops of Carranza who, ostensibly, were also in pursuit of the renegade Mexican leader.

Eluded Capture
Villa, wounded but always eluding his pursuers, lived in a Chihuahua mountain cave for five weeks. He was located in the center of a perpendicular cliff which rose 150 feet from a brook on the level plain below and from this point Villa said he often watched the American troops. Many times he was reported dead. Upon the American army's withdrawal from Mexico, Villa renewed his depredations. On April 4, 1910, he was indicted for first degree murder at Deming, N. M., on account of the Columbus raid.

"They call me a bandit and the worst man in Mexico," declared Villa when he was welcomed to San Pedro, Coahuila, "but I would preserve our nationality. I surrendered because further fighting in Mexico meant intervention by the United States. It is time for peace." In a manifesto he praised the "good faith, honor and patriotism" of Provisional President de la Huerta and declared it was his purpose to show the Mexican nation that he and his men could "build as well as destroy."

The former bandit went with his family from San Pedro to Las Nieves, Durango, to "settle down" on his farm there and shortly after wrote to de la Huerta for school books and supplies. Villa was said to have been deeply affected by the death of a daughter in San Antonio, Texas, a month after his surrender. Sixteen of his men, who were among a number captured by Pershing and convicted of various offenses were pardoned by the governor of New Mexico in November 1920.

Villa's General Killed
The first real tragedy in Villa's life occurred when General Felipe Angeles was executed as a revolutionary by Carranza troops in 1919. Villa admired Angeles not only as a patriot and soldier, but regarded him almost as a father. He wept bitterly when he received word that Angeles had been shot. He threatened reprisals and later aided in the overthrow of the Carranza regime.

Villa's real name was Doroteo Ortega. He was born in 1878, a poor parentage in the little mining town of Las Nieves. As a youth he followed the trade of butcher until the death of his father and then his mother and sister went to Western Chihuahua. There he became a cowboy. Many stories have been told as to how he became an outlaw but the one most generally accepted is that it was because he killed a captain in one of President Diaz' regiments. Diaz then placed a price on his head. It was at this time that he changed his name to Villa. He organized a band of outlaws and became a terror to the rich land owners and mining men of Northern Chihuahua, robbing them and sharing the spoils with his followers and the impoverished peasants.

When the Madero revolution against Diaz occurred in 1910, Villa became a military leader in that movement. At one time he was arrested and sent to Mexico City by General Victoriano Huerta. He was condemned to death by a military court for insubordination. Madero saved his life. Villa later escaped and fled across the Texas border. Huerta became dictator after Madero's assassination in 1913 and when Carranza revolted against Huerta in Coahuila, Villa re-organized a campaign against the man who had imprisoned him. Peons flocked to his standard and he is said to have gathered an army of 35,000 men.

First Great Victory
Villa's first great victory against the Huerta troops was at Ojinaga. After the battle, 4,000 men and eight generals of the Federal army took refuge in the United States and were interned. In other fights, including San Pedro de las Colonias, Tardón and Torreón, Villa was also triumphant. Then came an estrangement between Villa and Carranza and when the latter made his triumphal entry into Mexico City, following the retirement of Huerta, the bandit leader declared war upon the new President. Villa had been one of the independent chiefs who had made and formulated the plan of Guadalupe which made Carranza first chief of the Constitutional forces.

With Emilio Zapata, another bandit chieftain opposed to Huerta, Villa made common cause. The two occupied Mexico City with their troops, forcing Carranza's retirement to Vera Cruz. General Alvaro Obregon, later successor to de la Huerta in the Presidency, and loyal to Carranza, led an army out to meet them. At Colima, Trujillo and Cihuo he defeated the Villa-Zapata forces. In those battles, Obregon lost an arm and Villa lost his prestige as a commander. The Villa and Zapata followers were dispersed. One disaster followed another and Villa retreated across the mountains to Sonora where he joined forces with the Yaqui chieftain Urbalejo.

Power Waned
In the years that followed, and up to the time of the Columbus, N. M., raid, Villa's influence as a military leader steadily waned. Defections from Villa's ranks continued, many of his generals leaving him and accepting the amnesty of the Carranza government. Villa sent his wife across the border and with only a few hundred men resumed the bandit raids for which in earlier years he has been notorious.

Then came the overthrow of the Carranza regime, the rise of the de la Huerta provisional government and the election of Obregon. Obregon had proved Villa's master in the field. On May 27, 1920, three Federal forces started out to capture Villa and the following July, as 8,000 men were closing in on him, he agreed to an armistice and surrendered to General Eugenio Martinez at Saltillo, practically on his own terms.

Stowaway Tells Of Agony Of Experience On Ship

NEW YORK, July 20.—Cooked for seven days while a stowaway in the torrid "fiddler" of the steamship Reliance, his face and body covered with soot and his form lean from hunger, Karl Bolk, a mechanical engineer from Hamburg, went to Ellis Island today to be deported.

Ten days ago he crept aboard the Reliance and secreted himself in the "fiddler." No matter what the temperature outside may be it is always hot in the fiddler. In the pockets of his well worn clothing he carried a string of German sausage and some fruit. Water he obtained in a tiny quantity from a leak in a feed pipe.

Soon his fruit ran out. His steady diet of sausage coupled with the toil of the ship made him ill and weak. He was a land lubber. Exhausted, three days ago he lay on the deck and let a steel door bang with the swaying of the boat. Ship's

British To Offer Concessions In Note To Be Submitted To Powers

LONDON, July 20.—(By the Associated Press)—Additional alterations were made today in the text of the draft reply to German's reparations memorandum by the British cabinet, which met in the premier's room in the house of commons this morning.

Unless it should seem expedient to make some eleventh-hour changes, the document probably will be despatched to the allied and American governments tonight. It is understood that the suggested reply contains about 1,400 words and is up to the standard of cogency and forcefulness usually characterizing documents prepared by Lord Curzon, the secretary for foreign affairs and that it is marked throughout by a most moderate and amicable tone.

Among the multiplicity of forecasts offered, the public by the political oracles in seems safe to accept the prediction that the note will deal with the appointment of an international committee of experts to appraise Germany's assets and that it will suggest to Germany that Great Britain is prepared to ask France to reduce the occupational forces to a minimum so that Germany's industrial and mining plants in that region shall be free to contribute to the payment of reparations. In return for this Germany will be expected to countermand all ordinances for passive resistance.

It is also considered certain that Great Britain will not offer to cancel the French, Italian and Belgian debts as suggested by some reports. This proposition never has been discussed with the allies and even if it has, it is considered entirely irrelevant to the reply to Germany's reparations note.

The present documents have for their purpose the ultimate submission of the whole reparations problem to an international conference of plenipotentiaries to be held in the near future in Brussels or some other equally acceptable city, according to the best information. It is considered probably the note will ask the interested governments to indicate their approval of such a meeting.

It is still uncertain whether the United States will be invited to such a conference in view of its known reluctance to re-enter European politics but some of the allied authorities foresee the possibility of the Washington government lending its moral influence and counsel to such a gathering by sending a delegate with a status somewhat similar to that of the American representative now at Lausanne.

Inspect New Raceland Track; Pronounced One Of The Finest

LEXINGTON, KY., July 20.—J. O. Keene, General Manager, and Judge William H. Shelley, Racing Secretary, came to Lexington this morning from Raceland, the new plant of the Tri-State Fair and Racing Association near Greenvale, Ky.

It was Judge Shelley's first visit to Raceland. Asked what he thought of it, Judge Shelley said: "Raceland, when it is completed, will be the most beautiful race track in the world. The stables are entirely out of sight of the grandstand. They are located well to the rear of the stand and there is an abundance of shade about the place. I never tasted better water than that which comes from springs on the grounds."

General Manager Keene, when asked concerning progress toward completion, said: "We are going ahead rapidly, our stables are completed, but we have had a delay in the completion of our water system, which is comprised of a 100,000 gallon tank, into which water is pumped from two deep wells and distributed at the stables."

"This will cause us not to be able to receive horses before August 1. We have yet much to do toward the completion of our grandstand, but unless there should arise some complications now unforeseen, we will have it done in ample time. The steel is up; the concrete is being poured; the roof is going on; flooring is being put in and other necessary things are being done."

"If it should develop that we cannot hereafter, ample notice will be given to the horsemen who are intending to be at Raceland."

Fasted Seventy Days

MINNEAPOLIS, July 20.—(By the Associated Press)—A remarkable story of how an aged man voluntarily fasted seventy days and retained his strength until within a week of his death, is told here by relatives of Jonas Forse, 74 years old, who died at his farm home near Rush Lake, Sunday, after an illness of two years.

According to C. R. Anderson, son-in-law, the aged man suffered from paralytic strokes at intervals during the past four years. Ten weeks ago he first refused food, according to Anderson, and attempts to feed him failed. Relatives succeeded in feeding him a little milk and water. Outside of that he ate nothing.

He was up every day, walking about the house and yard until a week ago, Anderson said, when he took to his bed. Another attempt at forcible feeding was made but it was unsuccessful.

H. C. L. Cause Of Rioting In Warsaw

WARSAW, July 20.—(By the A. P.)—Rioting in which one person was killed and 26 wounded followed yesterday's widespread strikes called on account of the increasing cost of living. A quiet was restored today but there is a strong probability of a country wide general strike which the Communist leaders have been urging. The trouble was most serious at Lodz, where 70,000 employees in the textile mill quit work. The Communists organized a mass meeting which the police ordered to disperse because of its alleged anti-governmental character. Armed workmen, according to the authorities attacked the police, wounding 17 policemen and the assistant chief. The police returned the fire killing one of the demonstrators and wounding three.

Cut Wheat Crop

CHICAGO, July 20.—(By the Associated Press)—The co-operative agreement to curtail wheat production by the wheat growers of the six states in the wheat producers' conference of the southwest will clear the way to prosperity of wheat growers in 1924, it was declared by Governor Dawes, executive vice president of the wheat council of the United States in a report to the council made public here today.

"With an agreement like this the wheat growers of the United States can go a long way toward getting on a sound basis before snow flies," said Mr. Dawes. He endorsed the policies of the wheat producers' conference of the southwest, organized in Wichita, Kansas, July 18, and declared that the wheat council of the United States would co-operate in the efforts of the southwestern men.

Local Boy Drowns While Bathing In Tygart Creek; Body Is Recovered

The body of Edgar Robertson, 16 years old, who disappeared from his grandfather's field near Bennett's Mills, Ky., eight miles back of Gray's Branch, Ky., yesterday morning, was found in Tygart Creek about 3:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon. A search was started for the boy when he did not come to his grandfather's house for dinner. Judging from the amount of a field he plowed he drowned about 9 A. M.

The funeral will be held Saturday morning at 11:30, with burial at McCally's cemetery at Tannery, Ky.

The youth was a son of Oscar and Leatha Robertson of Bennett's Mills. The parents are working during the summer in Portsmouth and are making their home with her brother-in-law, and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Dixon of 420 Campbell avenue. The boy was to spend the summer on his grandfather's farm.

Had Been Plowing

The youth, according to Mr. and Mrs. James Robertson, his grandparents, with whom he has been living, had eaten a hearty breakfast early yesterday morning and had gone out into the field to plow. When he failed to show up for dinner, the lad's relatives became uneasy and with the assistance of farmers living nearby began a search for him. They found the horse and plow abandoned in the field and a short time later discovered the boy's clothing piled on a rock near the edge of Tygart Creek.

It was about three o'clock yesterday afternoon before relatives were able to reach this telephone to inform relatives in Portsmouth of Edgar's disappearance. In addition to his parents, Edgar leaves one brother Virgil also of Bennett's Mills, his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. James Robertson and the following uncles and aunts: Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Dixon of Portsmouth, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Robertson, Fullerton, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Robertson of Argentin, Ky., and Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Robertson, Malone, Ky.

MAKES FLIGHT IN MACHINE

OPERATED BY FOOT POWER

DAYTON, O., July 20.—(By the Associated Press)—The first flight by man in the air propelled vehicle, operated by foot power of the occupant only is an accomplished fact, it was learned today.

W. F. Gerhardt, aeronautical engineer at McCook Field, is the inventor of the contrivance which he terms a scientific curiosity, and in which contrivance he made the first successful flight in the presence of witnesses early yesterday morning.

While the flights which were made with the new machine are not sensational, the inventor claims that the principles involved can be successfully incorporated in a machine capable of comparatively great heights and speed.

In the longest flight made with the machine, operated by and supplied with the pilot's own power, it rose about three inches from the ground and flew approximately twenty feet, which the inventor declared was long enough to insure steady flight.

"This machine was not intended to fly around the sky, but merely to make the kind of flight it did, to prove scientifically the possibility of human flight," the inventor said.

The "cycle plane" has seven lifting wings, one mounted above the other by means of a connecting strut three feet high; each wing is approximately two feet in width and three inches thick.

A propeller made of light wood is operated by the pilot by means of a chain and pedal arrangement, much after the manner of a bicycle.

In recent tests, the "cycle plane" was given its initial start forward by means of a tow line. After the machine gets under way, the pilot starts peddling and when the propeller revolves at a sufficient speed, the machine lifts gradually from the ground and moves forward.

The regular stabilizer, rudder and landing gear is used on the "cycle plane." There are no alterations on the machine, as it obtains its lifting power by the peculiar placement of the lower wing.

The fuselage of the "cycle plane" is approximately 20 feet long and the top wing stands about thirty feet from the floor.

No data on its weight was available.

Pedestrian Identified

OMAHA, NEB., July 20.—(By the Associated Press)—Identification of an aged pedestrian found dead near Fairbury, Neb., last week as 77, H. J. Rogers, 82, who is believed to have been trying to win $3,000 by lowering the walking record from New York to San Francisco for men more than 70 years old, is thought to have been established, according to a dispatch received here from Fairbury today.

Newspaper clippings in the dead man's clothes told of a news syndicate offering $3,000 to any man more than 70 who could lower a transcontinental record. While at Fairbury the aged man claimed to have worked as printer in the office of Warren G. Harding.

"SHELL-SHOCK" Is Officially Ousted From British War Office Vocabulary

Lord Southborough's Committee Winds Up Two Years' Investigation With Recommendation That Only Actual Cases of Genuine Nervous Breakdown Under Fire Be Recognized in Future Wars.

"MAN MASTERSHIP" ITS CURE

Viscount Gort, V.C., Urges Army Officers Should Be Taught Human Nature and Should Possess Ability to Apply It to Their Men, in Same Way as They Are Now Taught Horse Mastership

BRUTAL METHODS DENOUNCED

Martinet Who Use Force to Drive Their Men Are Found Unfit to Command.—Although "Shell-Shock" as a Term Became First Known in the Last War, Historian of British Army Tells Investigators Its Symptoms Were Not Unknown in Previous Wars, Although Then They Were Referred to as Cowardice and Were Esteemed Disgraceful to Regiment in Which They Occurred.—Thrilling Instances of Soldiers Who Became Genuinely "Shell-Shocked" in Terrific Fighting of Modern War, and Some of Whom Recovered.—Commander of Famous Scottish Regiment Tells How "Shell-Shock" May Become as Contagious as Measles.—Medical Officers Tell What "Shell-Shock" Is and What Conditions Are Which Produce It.—First Investigation Into "Shell-Shock" Proves to Be of as Wide Interest to Students of Human Nature as to Army Officers.

By HAYDEN CHURCH

Copyright, 1922, by The McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

LONDON.—The term "shell-shock" is a great and costly misnomer, according to a British War Office committee which has just completed two years of investigation here.

Having eliminated the handy term "shell-shock," the War Office recognizes in its place various specific neurological forms of fear and its "Inquiry into 'Shell-Shock'" becomes an inquiry into the anatomy of fear, a virgin field of research and one as interesting to students of human nature as to the medical corps of armies.

So thoroughly has it explored this hitherto unknown field that the War Office has given us our first serious statement of the nature of cowardice, for the cure of which it proposes that "officers must be taught more about man mastership in the same way as they are taught about horse mastership."

This phrase "man mastership" is a contribution to military phraseology which has already been eagerly seized upon here, and is apt to prove one of the War Office's most important contributions to the world's military thought. It coins into a single phrase an idea which has long been running in the heads of distinguished soldiers, who believe that almost anything can be done with human material if officers are only equipped with a knowledge of human nature and ability to apply that knowledge.

Back of this new phrase "man mastership" lies a contempt for the martinet officer and his methods. The futility of blind force, of savage punishment, of mere autocracy in the handling of men, appears in every line of the committee's report, along with a parallel tendency to shift blame away from the soldier to his commander. Thus Lieut.-Gen. Sir T. H. J. C. Goodwin, K.C.B., C.M.G., D.S.O., Director-General of the British Army Medical Service, told the committee:

"If in the case of two regiments under similar conditions in the line, one showed a considerable amount of so-called 'shell-shock' and the other comparatively little, it would be evident that the former regiment was not as efficient as the latter, and I personally would look to the officers to see what their influence was with the men and how they were looking after them; how close they were to their men and how much they were believed in by their men."

Similarly, General Lord Horne, G.C.B., K.C.M.G., who commanded the British 1st Army in France during the war, "agreed with the regimental opinion that a large number of 'shell-shock' cases in a battalion may be taken as a sign of poor morale." The same idea was expanded by Squadron Leader W. Tyrrell, D.S.O., M.C., of the Medical Service of the British Royal Air Force, who told the committee it required knowledge of the normal characters of the men, with endless and patient observation of their characteristics, on the part of their medical officer or executive officer, to detect their changes of character (leading to "shell-shock") which, summed up, were:

"The wild fighting type becomes quiet and moody."

"The sullen type becomes excitable and talkative."

"The careful man becomes suddenly reckless."

"The previously well-behaved man perpetrates petty crimes, etc." "In all these cases, the officer must learn to know his men intimately to be able to judge the slightest variation in their characteristics. That is what we are aiming at in providing a special officer in the Air Force—to be able to estimate minute changes in the character and soul, and take the sick men away early. Immediately I noticed a large number of such cases coming from one battalion I would go for their interior economy and the general discipline and conduct of the battalion. I should look for the reason not in subordinate individuals, but in the head of the battalion—the commanding officer."

The New Word "Man Mastership"

It is difficult to reduce the results of so weighty an investigation into the limits of a single sentence, but it is not improbable that it has substituted for the now obsolete word "shell-shock" the new and entrancing remedy, "man mastership." The new term has been coined by Lieut.-Col. Viscount Gort, V.C., D.S.O., of the British Grenadier Guards, who was one of the 59 expert witnesses called by the committee. The committee itself is one whose strength entitles it to the most respectful hearing. It was Lord Southborough who, on April 28, 1920, moved in the British House of Lords for a committee to investigate "shell-shock." The Army Council thereupon named 14 members for the committee who should be representative of the British Admiralty, the War Office, the Air Ministry, the Ministry of Pensions, Parliament, and the medical Lieut.-Col. Viscount Gort, V.C., D.S.O. (on the right of the picture), who told Lord Southborough's committee that the cure for those nervous ailments among soldiers under fire which became known during the war as "shell-shock," was "man mastership," a phrase which has been seized upon as a new gospel by distinguished soldiers in Europe.

authorities of the country, all to serve under Lord Southborough's chairmanship. This is the body which has now brought to a close the first serious investigation which has ever been made into "shell-shock."

The importance of its report is enhanced when it is realized that the late war was the first war in which the term "shell-shock" was ever used. The Hon. John Fortescue, historian of the British Army, in testifying before the committee on the subject of "shell-shock" in previous wars, said that "shell-shock" proper—that is to say, the shock of an explosion—was of course known. For instance, one of the engineer officers who blew open the Gate of Guzman in 1829, was so close to the petard when it exploded that he was seriously shaken and while suffering from the shock gave false information which imperilled the success of the assault. No one in the circumstances blamed him. On the contrary, everyone made excuses for him. On the other hand, a drunken Irish soldier who was accidentally left inside the fort of Muchee Bhawn, outside Lucknow, when that fort was blown up in 1857, presented himself a few hours later before one of the gates of Lucknow with the words, 'Arrah, arrah, open your gates.' He had been blown up with the fort but was none the worse, apparently not even sobered.

"No doubt there were men who from one cause or another broke down in every campaign; and I have little doubt that this was one of the causes which led to desertion. But such breaks down, when they are recorded, are not very sympathetically treated, and unless a man had proved himself of good courage earlier in action, are dismissed as not differing greatly from cowardice. Of course numbers of men went out of their minds in the old campaigns as they still do."

"The worst lot of men that we ever sent out to war were the reinforcements that went to Flanders in the middle of 1794 and to the West Indies in 1795-1796."

tempt to recover him. The Captain of the Victoria, I believe, never recovered from the sinking of his ship and certainly died soon after. I knew a lady who had gone through the siege of Lucknow, lost her husband and children there and married one of the relieving force. She was a happy wife and mother when I knew her, but she turned white and trembled at the word 'Lucknow'. Similarly, I knew a man who had survived the great volcanic explosion in New Zealand in 1836. He was a light-hearted person, but the word 'Tarawhera' sufficed to unnerve him completely. All of us can recall the like experience.

"Of course in old days noise played a less important part in warfare than at present, and men could see their enemies, which undoubtedly reduced the strain. The agony of terror caused by the misdeeds of an unseen enemy in old days can be measured by the accounts of Braddock's disastrous action on the Monongahela in 1755. On the other hand, the supreme trial of old days has no parallel in present. This was ricochet round-shot, which men could see bounding toward them like cricket balls and could easily have avoided by stepping aside."

tinger, loss of memory, acute mania, insensibility, etc. A man's bank balance of nervous energy varies. Some men become bankrupt quickly and some take a lot of punishment. A very few appear to have an inexhaustible store of nervous energy. They usually get killed and always earn the description that they did not know what fear was, which is wrong. All men know fear. Some merely conceal it better than others. A few bury it out of sight, but it is there all the same.

"Shell-shock," Lord Southborough believes, is born of fear. Its grandparents are self-preservation and the fear of being found afraid. Any emotion which has to be repressed or concealed demands an unrestricted but well-controlled output of nervous energy. Craven fear is the most extravagant prodigal of nervous energy known. Under its stimulus a man squanders nervous energy recklessly in order to suppress his hideous and pent-up emotion, and mask or camouflage that which is revealed will call down ignominy upon his head and disgrace him in the eyes of his fellows. He must save his self-respect and self-esteem at all costs.

The most likely type of man for "Shell-shocked" soldiers undergoing a course of treatment during the war at a British hospital. Men like these were called upon to relate their experiences to the Southborough Committee, along with neurological experts of the highest standing in England, and officers of the British Army, Navy and Air Force.

Lord Southborough, chairman of the British War Office's special committee which has just completed two years of investigation into the nature of "shell-shock." His committee has discovered that "shell-shock" is a misnomer and recommends that the War Office eliminate the term from its official phraseology.

Both behaved infamously, as was to be expected from the scum of England gathered together by crimps; and I have no doubt that there was a good deal of 'shell-shock' among them. But the men in Flanders had only canvas clothing in which to face a very hard winter, and those in the West Indies had to go through an arduous campaign in the tropics—the latter died almost to a man of yellow fever; the former melted away with cold and starvation. They notoriously included many boys of feeble intellect; but there are no details about them individually. Considering the hardship to which they were exposed, it would not be safe to draw inferences from such details even if we possessed them.

"I saw the kit of one of the two survivors of the Eurydice sold on board H.M.S. Dido in 1832 or 1833. The man had deserted and as he was utterly unnerved and useless, the Captain made no attempt to recover him. The Captain of the Victoria, I believe, never recovered from the sinking of his ship and certainly died soon after. I knew a lady who had gone through the siege of Lucknow, lost her husband and children there and married one of the relieving force. She was a happy wife and mother when I knew her, but she turned white and trembled at the word 'Lucknow'. Similarly, I knew a man who had survived the great volcanic explosion in New Zealand in 1836. He was a light-hearted person, but the word 'Tarawhera' sufficed to unnerve him completely. All of us can recall the like experience."

What "Shell-Shock" Is

Lord Southborough's committee defines "shell-shock" as prevalent in the late war, as exhaustion of that nervous energy which determines will-power and self-control. A man's store of which somewhat resembles a bank account. A continuous series of great nervous crises without intervals for replacing the lost nervous energy, ultimately exhausts the account and runs on the bank ensues, followed by such symptoms as loss of control, hysteria, irresponsible chat-

"shell-shock" is the brooding, introspective, self-analyzing man, the type who in the last war was constantly estimating his chance of survival, whose imagination added the terrors of the future to those of the present. Men of high intelligence who recognize the necessity to cast their imagination and live for the hour at a time, taking no heed for what the future might bring forth, i.e., who adopted the fatalist attitude, these men fortified themselves and for the most part "carried on." Other men of equally high intelligence had not used it to develop their character and will-power. Their imagination ran riot, wasted their nervous capital; they usually ended in a breakdown. Controlled intelligence was a safeguard. Uncontrolled intelligence was a curse, and a sure forerunner of "shell-shock." A characteristic common to all "shell-shocked" individuals was fear, exaggerated to the point of nervous breakdown by loss of sleep and inadequate rest. Severe mental stress accompanied by fatigue, mud and blood, wet and cold, misery and monotony, unsavory cooking and feeding, had recovered."

nauseating environment—these were all inducements as well to "shell-shock."

The contagion of "shell-shock," once it has been started, is dwelt on at length by the Southborough Committee. "I saw its contagion very markedly in the retirement of March, 1918," Lieut.-Col. J. S. Y. Rogers, C.B.E., D.S.O., of the famous Scottish Black Watch Regiment, told the committee. "We came through that retirement with only one second lieutenant and 35 men at Villers Bretonneux. I saw a lot of other troops in an absolutely terrified condition (there is no other word for it) during that retirement. Then again at Givency, I saw it to a certain extent in my own battalion. There was a mine blown up at Givency, just near to the biggest mine in France, the 'Red Dragon'. This mine got the 2d Black Watch who were on our right, rather badly, killed a good number of them and killed two or three of our men with the falling debris, sandbags, and so on. The 2d Black Watch had a considerable number of 'shell-shocked' cases. From that time some of our men began to go down; there were about forty of them with three non-commissioned officers. I knew the men quite well and I sized them up. There was no such thing as 'shell-shock' the matter with these men at all. They had 'the wind up', and they were frightened, and I knew perfectly well it was deadly to allow this contagion to spread. I saw it had to be stopped and I told the men they had left the front line without permission. I told them they were going straight back and would be punished for it afterwards. I promptly marched these men myself up to the front line, and handed them over personally to the Company Officer. In none of these men did this condition go any farther. They saw that it was more fear than anything else, and if I could go up and share their dangers they were quite willing to settle down. I took their names and followed their careers, and they did quite well, but it does show how things of this sort may become contagious."

"There is of course such a thing as severe emotional neurosis which varies in degree. I will give you an example. In front of Dead Cow Farm there were two officers who were going up with a battalion orderly. They were just by the communication trenches when they were shelled badly. The two officers stood it quite well, but the man simply collapsed and crumpled up. He was brought down to my aid post and I saw it was a case I must evacuate. He was there with terrified expression, cold face, sweat pouring off his body, unable to speak though he tried to do so, and tremors of body."

Col. J. G. Burnett, C.M.G., D.S.O., of the Gordon Highlanders, another famous Scottish regiment, told of a number of cases in which men had made remarkable recoveries from so-called "shell-shock."

"Most cases we had were of ordinary 'nerve-shock', which was looked upon as a disgrace and must continue to be so looked upon in any army which hopes to retain its efficiency. It was more common in the new recruits than in the old Regular Army men. In a pre-war Regular battalion, so long as the officer himself did not come down with a nervous collapse, very few of the men would; the officer would not find that the whole of his platoon had experienced a nervous breakdown and that he was advancing by himself! But with the new Army, there was always a certain proportion of men left behind who remained in the dug-outs and said they had been blown up by shells. A large proportion of them were so left because they did not want to go on. There was the case of a man on the Somme in 1916 who did not go over the top with the rest of his battalion. His story was that he was blown down the dug-out by a shell. He was unable to prove the story and was tried for his life and sentenced to be shot. The sentence was held over, but the next time he went into action he got recommended for a Distinguished Conduct Medal. That man had made a final effort to control himself and had recovered."

Rollins finished the game for the defeated side and a trio of runs were scored off him in the sixth. "Rooster" Smith twirled good ball for Scotville after the first game. A special meeting of league officials was held called for Saturday evening at 7:30 at the Chamber of Commerce.

FEATURES OF YESTERDAY'S GAMES

NEW YORK, July 20.—The two New York league leaders took two heavy tumbles yesterday, and the challenges were just a little closer. The Giants, playing in the Polo Grounds, were completely washed. St. Louis was satisfied with nothing but home runs and took three, the only markers during the whole game. Two were hit by Mueller and one by Bottomley. In Detroit the Yankees were smothered 2 to 2. They were disastrously short on hurlers and the ones they had, sported sore arms. Four of the nine runs were taken in the seventh and eighth innings.

The visitors from Philadelphia came out on top in St. Louis, winning in a walk, 7 to 4, and broke the Browns' winning streak of six in a row.

In a close pitchers' battle in Cleveland, the Indians trimmed the Senators 3 to 2. Speaker's extra base drives winning the game for the home team.

While the Sox, playing on their home grounds, easily defeated Boston 8 to 3. Pittsburgh won in Boston in a hard hitting even game, 8 to 6.

With none out in the eighth, McInnis, the Braves' first baseman, lined into a triple play, Traynor to Adams to Grimm.

In Philadelphia, the Reds ran away with the game, 7 to 1. The Brooklyn Dodgers won the second game of the series with the Cincinnati Reds, 1 to 0.

The first baseman called for the ball. It was thrown to him, and he touched first base. The umpire declared the runner out who was standing on second.

What about the two runs that had crossed the plate?

There are runners on second and third and two men out. With the count three balls and two strikes the next pitch at which the batter struck was a bad ball. It eluded the catcher and went to the grandstand.

The runners on second and third crossed the plate and the batsman reached second.

The batsman in going to second failed to touch first. The ball was thrown to that base, and the umpire ruled him out, retiring the side. What about the two runs that had crossed the plate?

In the first case, where the batsman received a base on balls and failed to touch first base, when he managed to reach second, because the fourth ball was a wild pitch, the two runs scored.

The batsman was entitled to first base, hence there was no chance to make a play in which the batsman failed to reach first because he failed to touch that base on his way to second.

In the other case, where the two runs scored on a third strike that was a wild pitch, the batsman reaching second but failing to touch first, the two runs did not score.

Failure to touch first on the wild third strike simply made a third out in which the batsman failed to reach first, and no runs can score on such a play.

What amateurs other than Bobby Jones have figured in a national open championship to the extent of winning or losing for a prize?

In 1913 Francis Ouimet tied with Ray and Vardon and won the play-off. Two years later Jerome Traverser won over. The following year Chick Evans, with 286, the lowest score ever made in an open, captured the title.

Is it permissible for a player having a short putt to place his hand in the hole and punt the ball into his hand?

While this is often done in friendly matches, it is of course a breach of the rules in match competition. There is always a chance that the ball will jump the hole if punted too strongly. Placing of the hand in the hole eliminates this possibility. Such an act would tend to disqualify a competitor.

Two partners in a four-ball match accidentally exchange balls and play out the hole that way and apparently win it. Then the mistake is discovered. Must the mistake be discovered before they hole out of a penalty is to be inflicted?

The rules presently state that the players accidentally lose the hole when partners exchange balls. No consideration can be given the fact that the happening was accidental and that the players holed out the wrong ball before it was discovered.

BOBBY TO REST

CLEVELAND, O., July 20.—Bobby Jones, open golf champion, will not compete in the western amateur tournament to be staged at the Mayfield Country Club here next week, according to advices received here today from Atlanta.

Jones has not fully recovered from the mental and physical ordeal he underwent at Inwood last week when he won the title, the advices said. The champion intends to rest until September when he will try for the national amateur championship at Chicago.

The 50,000 crowd at the Dempsey-Carpenter affair, which stirred up more interest in this country than any previous sporting event, will also be a touchstone for the future. The Shelby affair seemed to awaken everyone in the fight game to the fact that fighters were getting too much money.

Dempsey is the only one who pulled out of the fight with enough money to win a $200,000. Everyone else lost. Jack got $220,000, and the consensus of opinion is that was plenty. Rickard showed his genius for promotion when he got Fippo and Willard into the ring for a percentage of the gate. He is not taking six figures to anyone, nowadays, without knowing what he is talking about.

The $200,000 Dempsey received would keep an ordinary man in luxury for a lifetime.

There have been arranged what the fighters call "benefit bouts" all over the country, for a charitable cause or another. The only thing that charity gets out of these fights is what is left over after the fighters get their purses.

Of course, no one is going to say that a fighter should not make a living. Bricklayers are making $12 a day, and they may be worth it. Some fighters are getting purses in six figures and they may be worth it—probably not.

But somehow or another, Edgemoor Criegli, the featherweight champion of the world who never caused any of these big purses, is finding time enough to go to France and fight for the disabled soldiers, and he is not taking a centime.

NEW YORK, July 20.—While lightweight champion Benny Leonard and challenger Lew Tendler were sliding off into light workouts today and talking about how sure they were going to win at the Yankee Stadium next Monday night, fight experts here were speculating about the eighth round of the mix up. It was at that stage of their battle last year in Jersey City that Lew got close to the title by landing a punch on the champion's mouth with a powerful left hook and loosened three of the titular teeth.

Lew broke a small bone in his left hand with the blow and close observers said he had favored it ever since. He put Bobby Burritt down and out with a right punch a year ago.

It was reported from Delancey, N. J., where Tendler is in training, that the Philadelphian has finished intensive training. He said the fight would be either a knock out victory for him or a draw. "I don't entertain an idea of being the one on the floor," he added.

Red Men Planning To Attend Outing

Seneca Tribe of Red Men is anticipating a fine time at the outing at Sippola Park and they will make off with the prize for the trip at their regular meeting tonight. The outing is under the auspices of the Congo Tribe of Cleveland.

An invitation from the Manawa Tribe, No. 37, Hunting Grounds of Urbana, to an open-air initiation, was received yesterday by John Reeg. This invitation will be read at the meeting tonight. The initiation will be held Saturday, July 28, on the Port Logan farm, five miles south of Urbana.

Collide at Corner

A car driven by M. A. Fiegle, 2223 Thurst street, was slightly damaged Thursday, when he turned the corner at Robinson avenue into Young street and collided with another car coming in the opposite direction.

Fiegle says the other car cut the corner and ran into him, bending his right front fender and knocking the spring leaf out of line. The man in the other machine admitted his fault and offered to pay for the damage, which was slight.

WILLIAMS AND BABE, HOME RUN CLOUTER'S ST AGING A CLOSE RACE

NEW YORK, July 20.—Cy Williams of the Phillies and Babe Ruth of the Yankees are still running neck and neck in their home run race, Cy being one ahead of the Babe, with 23 for the season.

Babe appears to be getting the upper hand however, for while Cy has made only five home runs since the end of May, Ruth has made eleven, eight of which were whacked out in the first eighteen days of July.

Even so, the New York fence wrecker was 14 home runs behind his 1921 record to date, for at this time two years ago Babe had 36 of the season's 59 already to his credit.

Day Of Guaranteed Purses Over

BY PAUL R. MALLON

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, July 20.—(United Press)—Fight promoters are beginning to talk more sense and less money every day.

Tex Rickard, the premier, says the day of $300,000 purses passed with the fiasco out in Shelby, Montana—remembered as the scene of some bout or other between one Jack Dempsey and Mr. Thomas Gibson.

He hastens to add, however, in the next breath, that "around New York" there may be some dare-devil promoter who will try to offer somebody that much, but he expresses doubt as to whether it will ever be paid.

The 50,000 crowd at the Dempsey-Carpenter affair, which stirred up more interest in this country than any previous sporting event, will also be a touchstone for the future. The Shelby affair seemed to awaken everyone in the fight game to the fact that fighters were getting too much money.

WHY AND WHEREFORE

JOHN T. ADAMS, chairman of the Republican national committee, following the usual rote, proclaims to the world that the defeat of the Republican candidate for senator was, in a general way, a protest against temporary conditions that have affected the farmer adversely. He laments it because he fears the government will now be forced into economic fallacy of buying two hundred million bushels of wheat at $1.50 a bushel and storing it against a better day.

Such policy would be wrong, of course, but it threatens because one evil breeds another. Chairman Adams's party wants the government to pay not the fixed sum of three hundred millions of dollars, but indefinite and unlimited millions as subsidy to private owners to sail ships. This latter is the worse of two evils. If the government bought 200,000,000 bushels of wheat that would be an investment, most likely a costly one, but if it granted ship subsidy that would be merely giving away the money. Had there never been any proposed ship subsidy it is most probable no such vagary as the government buying wheat would ever have found strength.

THE MEANING IN MINNESOTA

THE following editorial from the Akron Beacon Journal, aside from its striking style, and vivid exposition of a matter of tremendous import, possesses a local interest because the writer, Mr. Charles L. Knight, editor of the Beacon-Journal spoke here, recently, before the Exchange Club:

"The election in Minnesota explains itself. It is but another evidence of a rising tide of radicalism in this country, the end of which no man has to be a prophet to foresee. What has happened in Minnesota is exactly what is going to happen in many other states. We have repeatedly stated that the people have lost confidence in the old parties, and will turn to anything else without much thought about its soundness just so it offers a chance of getting something different. It is not political philosophy, it is not sound thought, but it is a protest against the existing order and it is nation-wide in its scope.

"That is why Henry Ford would poll more votes than both the democratic and republican candidates put together were he to enter the race for the presidency. Ford may not be fit for the office. Indeed we seriously doubt if he is, but the people are in no humor to consider that fact. They know he is not a politician and that he is not subject to the influence of people who make politics a business and that is quite enough for them.

"In the meantime the professional politicians cannot understand what it all means. They will go forth they say and organize. And forthwith they will send out political drum majors and majorettes to make signs in the provinces. The drum majors will talk about clubs and the drum majorettes, selected for the most part from the silk-stocking brigade of the women politicians, will tea a little and talk much, and when they get through they will think their tea and talk have turned the trick until the vote is counted. They will never realize that the people don't give a tinker's dam what a nice lady Mrs. Harding is or what a capital good fellow Warren happens to be. The thoughts of the people are on deeper and more important things that more closely concern their own lives and fortunes, and they are not going to let any party get away with another election by distracting attention from the main issues.

"The farmer wants to know, not whether the president can run a tractor, but whether he has any plans that will reduce the freight on it to less than its original cost. What Mrs. Harding wears is always becoming and will always interest a comparatively few women, but what the farmer wants to know is where he is going to get the price of a much less attractive dress for his own wife, after he has paid his grocery bill.

"The amiability of the presidential family is, of course, always a delightful thing, but that can not alone for things done or undone, and some of the living questions now are rather how long must the American people bear these taxes? How much longer must they look on while new boards and commissions, with the useless governmental taxpayers multiplying on all hands? How long must they behold their states stripped of power to regulate their own affairs while commissions at Washington formed, filled and run by politicians, deny them the right to regulate and direct their own affairs. On every hand they see what is going on to strip them of power. The politicians at Columbus take away the powers of the municipalities to conduct their own affairs, and those at Washington then drain off the rest. How much longer must they behold the hypocrite and pharisee of the Anti-Saloon league swallowing up the Republican party and diverting it from its true function and wasting the public revenue to carry out its perverted and Russianized ideas of sumptuary laws? These questions must be answered, and the people are not going to be parked on a siding by any of this amiability guff.

"The politicians, who are engaged in the tiddly-winks game of 'organizing' and sending out propaganda to teach what a hellish thing it was for a democratic governor to have mushrooms for breakfast, will never see that all this stuff will get nowhere, and that their party must answer the greater questions or go out of business. Yet such is the case. How any thoughtful person can overlook it is the greatest wonder of the age.

"Indeed what is happening and what is bound to happen lies right on the surface in full view, and yet the blessed 'leaders' go on to destruction with unseeing eyes. Without any remedy to offer they will once more next year proffer to the people the same old spavined and idealless politicians to run their affairs for them. There will be much talk about nothing and through it all the people will see the handiwork of the party patriot that gets rich out of electing puppets to office, and what they will do to the gang will be plenty. Minnesota will have no meaning for them. Nothing else will but destruction, and that waits just around the corner."

NEW YORK, July 20—Thoughts while strolling around New York: Fourteenth street: the fake diamond on Manhattan's shirt front. The romance of old New York still here. Swinging doors and children dancing to hurdy gurdies.

The stumping ground of "Big Tim" and "Little Tim." Over there's Tammany Hall. Humdrum looking. Made of brick. But if the old walls could talk. Yiddish theatres featuring Sanderma and Shakespear. Shuffling feet. Chirping talk.

Public dance halls. Where the waltz still rules. Social clubs sponsored by such names as Buck O'Rourke, Tip McCann, Sol the Gont, and Tony Caritta. Old women sitting on curbs selling apples, olives, pretzels and sugar cakes.

Fish-market stalls. And men who have fishy eyes. Perch. Smelt. Italian and Polish banks. Roasted sweet potatoes sold on sticks. Constant quarrelling over prices. Women with bare arms and calloused hands. And gaudy handkerchiefs about their heads.

An ancient Chinese sitting on a box like a grisly skeleton. Selling leeches. Sundry. Beggars. Every door is left open. Lace sold from paper bags. Hook-nosed men who smoke gold-tipped cigarettes. And never smile.

Strings of flaming red peppers. Pale, anemic children sucking dirty lollypops. Shops that sell cheap perfume—and cocaine. Glamour. Ho-wen. And again. Here are people thrown together who show real friendliness.

Each flat has a jangling piano or music box. Shirt-sleeved fathers walking with children. Dentists who work all night. Ghar-women who sleep all day.

A group of bright paragraph writers in New York who love the sea have purchased an old square-rigged, four-masted schooner and brought it into the lower harbor. Those who wish to travel as in the old sailing days will have their opportunity. Down to the sea in quips, as it were.

Brooklyn Bridge is 40 years old. It was the first span to link Manhattan and Brooklyn! And it was opened to traffic 18 years after work was first begun. It was designed by the late John A. Roebling after he won fame in erecting suspension bridges at Cincinnati and Niagara Falls. He died before the structure was completed. Brooklyn Bridge cost ten millions. It has always been a source of pride to New Yorkers and in the old days nearly every melodrama had its scene of a "den" under it. It has been glorified in song and story and each visitor wants to see the bridge among the first sights.

A cynical young literary lion has a sign in his studio which says: "Guests will be furnished visitors from the West and South." It is my guess that if he traveled a bit in the west and south he might learn the art of true hospitality. He certainly won't learn it here.

On windy days in Central Park there is a man pushing a small cart filled with straw hats. He sells to those whose hats are blown in the lake or who lose them while boating.

Old Mary, the balloon woman, who has stood at the southern entrance to Central Park for 15 years, delighting childish hearts has posed for a painting that is said will be hung soon at the Metropolitan. She often loans her balloons to poor children who come over from the East Side. She has supported an invalid family for many years by her sales. (Copyright 1923, by The McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

Doc Koko's KOLUM

With the Poets
If the butterfly courted the bee,
And the owl the porcupine;
If churches were built in the sea,
And three times one was nine;
If the pony rode his master,
If the butler cups the cows,
If the cats had the dire disaster,
To be worried, sir, by the mouse;
If mamma, sir, sold the baby,
To a singer for half a crown;
If a gentleman, sir, were a lady—
The world would be upside down!
If any or all of these wonders
Should ever come about,
I should not consider them blunders,
For I should be inside-out!

BERTON BRALEY'S DAILY POEM

HEAT

By Berton Braley
It's hot! The asphalt's seething
And running like a stream;
The air that I am breathing
Is superheated steam;
Thermometers are breaking,
Exploding like a shot;
Our ice we use for baking—
It's hot!

It's hot! My hair is frizzling
And singing to the breeze;
The water-cooler's sizzling,
I work in B. V. D's.
But perspiration's dripping,
And from my chair, I wot,
I cannot keep from slipping—
It's hot!

It's hot! I cannot utter
The words that might be said;
We bottle up our anger
And pour it on the bread!
Is this exaggeration?
Well, maybe; maybe not.
But here's the situation—
"It's hot!"
